

Rabies Shots Decried By PA County Board

Dept. of Labor Cautions Against Child Labor Use

Approach of the strawberry season in many sections of Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee this week brought a reminder from the U. S. Department of Labor that under the child labor provisions of the Federal Wage and Hour law, children under 16 years of age cannot be legally employed, except by their parents or guardian, on farms producing crops for interstate shipment during the hours that school is in session.

William M. Eaves, regional director of the U. S. Department of Labor's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, said the law applies also to farmers employing children on other crops, including spinach, tomatoes, melons, tobacco and cotton, and applies equally for resident as well as for migratory child labor.

Eaves explained that the law sets no limit as to wages paid or hours.

Zoning also Discussed

The inoculation of all dogs in the county was endorsed with an ordinance at a busy session of the Princess Anne County Board of Supervisors Monday in the courtroom at Princess Anne.

The board also heard several zoning requests and put on first reading an ordinance levying a $10.00 annual tax on each person practicing fortune telling, palmistry or phrenology.

Dr. William Y. Garrett, county health officer, told the board of the rabies problem, at which time the board adopted the ordinance requiring all dogs in the county to be inoculated. At the same time Reeves E. Johnson, Virginia Beach Police Chief, told the board that the city had adopted such an ordinance at the last meeting of the City Council.

The rabies control measure was patterned along the lines of that recently adopted by Warwick County after that section was beset with an outbreak of the dreaded disease. A county veterinarian has agreed to inoculate the dogs at a cost of $1.50 each. Dr. Garrett informed the board.

In other matters the board heard a petition from residents of the Bay Colony area asking that a restriction of 1500 square feet of liveable space be required of homes constructed in that area in the future. The board rejected the specific request and adopted a 1200 square foot minimum instead.

The board approved a zoning ordinance setting 1200 square feet as the minimum and a $15,000 cost minimum on houses in the Birdneck Point area.

In taking notice of the increasing number of trailer camps in the area and the need for some control on such construction, the board voted to request the state to withhold the issuance of licenses to trailer camps for sixty days while the county considers an ordinance which would limit the number of such camps.

Cooperative Plan Of Training Aids Students of Area

A cooperative plan of training which will give students practical experience interwoven with their classroom education has been instituted by VPI and more than 20 industries in the Norfolk area have joined in the plan.

The advantages of this program are two-fold. First, it enables the student to earn enough money to pay his college fees, and it enables a student to obtain a good background of industrial experience and thus makes him more valuable to industry when he completes his schooling.

Dr. M. Thompson, of Virginia Beach, who is a professor at the College of William and Mary and VPI, division in Norfolk, has explained the plan to 20 high school principals at Oceana, Creeds and Kempville. Frank W. Cox, county superintendent of schools, has endorsed the plan.

Riches

You are richer today than you were yesterday if you have laughed often, given something, forgiven even more, made a new friend, or made stepping stones of stumbling blocks; if you have thought more in terms of "myself than myself," or if you have managed to be cheerful even if you are weary.

You are richer tonight than you were this morning if you have taken time to trace the handiwork of God in the commonplace things of life, or if you learned to count out things that really don't count, or if you have been a little more kind to the faults of friend or foe. You are richer if you have looked for the best in others and given others the best in you.

'Antis' Ask Purge of Roll

PATROLMEN DELIVER TWINS

The Virginia Beach political scene was enlivened this week with the presentation of a petition to the registrars of the city's two voting precincts in which the petitioners allege that more than 800 persons at Virginia Beach should be dropped from the voting rolls for various reasons.

Local citizens presenting the petition were W. C. Everett, W. S. Brathwaite, Edwin M. Hall, W. Russell Hatchett, and Richard C. Brydges. The latter is a candidate for the city council in the forthcoming June election, running with the backing of the "People's Ticket" organization.

The petition contends that many persons whose names appear on the official voting books of Virginia Beach are not residents of the city, or have moved from Virginia Beach, or are deceased.

Some observers expressed the opinion that the petition's timing—so near to an election date—is done for purely political motives and not in the best interests of the community and its citizens.

It is reported that among the names that the petitioners have requested be stricken from the rolls many life-long, civic-minded citizens of Virginia Beach are included. A partial list of these include William R. Ashburn, Mrs. Willard R. Ashburn, Robert B. Taylor, Mrs. Taylor, J. C. Deal, Jr., Griffin Deal, James Jordan, Jr., Courtney Summit, David Stormont, III, Arthur S. Jordan, Mrs. Arthur S. Jordan, C. W. Korneguy and W. S. Johnson.

Taylor is a former member of the City Council and a former treasurer of Virginia Beach. He was recently named by Governor Battle to the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission. He is an executive of the Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies Corporation.

Ashburn, well known attorney, has lived at Virginia Beach for many years and has extensive property holdings here and maintains a partnership business at Virginia Beach.

Former State Senator Deal is a resident of Virginia Beach. He was recently named by Governor Battle to the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission. He is an executive of the Fuel, Feed and Building Supplies Corporation.

Several men are presently taking the advanced first aid course and will join the squad at a later date. These are Howard Kahn, Ole Wade, Richard Hitt, Griffin Deal and Shep Drewry.

Cape Henry Pilgrimage Made By Five Hundred Despite Wet Weather

The hardships of the courageous colonists who made the landing at Cape Henry on April 26, 1607, was exemplified in the pilgrimage made to that historic site on Sunday by five hundred folks who braved dripping skies to do honor to those responsible for the establishment of the first permanent English-speaking settlement in the Americas.

The inclemency of the weather, in no wise dampening the spirits of the assemblage, nonetheless forced them to abandon the customary practice to holding the memorial services at the granite cross, and caused them to adjourn to the Fort Story post theatre nearby.

Mrs. Frantz Naylor, president of the Order of Cape Henry 1607, found in the weather a striking parallel with the events so long ago. She reminded those who gathered in the rain Sunday that "it was a terrible storm that drove those thirty ships into the Virginia Capes in 1607."

The religious portion of the pilgrimage was conducted by the Rev. Edmund Berkeley, rector of the Galilee Episcopal Church, Virginia Beach. He declared that the cross the colonists erected that April day in 1607 was a symbol of the cross God planted in their hearts and ours.

Principal speaker for the occasion was Representative Porter Hardy, Jr. He recalled what the virginian forefathers must have looked like back in the colonizing days, and said that it was very understandable why the first "pilgrims" to these shores had set up a cross as an act of thanks, reaffirming their faith.

Mr. Hardy said that our modern life is too much concerned with various "isms," that some of these deny the freedom of the individual, holding that the individual belongs to the State, along with that which he produces. "We must go back to the Constitution," Representative Hardy declared. "Rule by edict must not be substituted for government under the Constitution."

The Army was represented at the memorial service by Brig. Gen. Harold L. Duffie, of Fort Eustis. General Duffie declared that the fight we are making today not only in defense of our own nation, but the freedom-loving peoples of the world, proved that the spirit of our forefathers is not dead today.

Other speakers were Rear Admiral R. O. Davis, USN, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District; the Hon. Thomas MacDonell, British Consul at Norfolk; Norfolk City Clerk John D. Corbett, who represented Mayor Duckworth; Hugh S. Watson, Jr., of Newport News, Governor of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the Commonwealth of Virginia; and Mrs. Lewis L. Chapman, of the National Society of the Daughters of American Colonists.

Mrs. Naylor introduced the speakers. A message was transmitted to those attending from Prime Minister Winston Churchill, through Sir Oliver Franks, Ambassador from Great Britain, and the Governor's Proclamation was read on the program.

The 75-minute program was concluded with a benediction by the Rev. Mr. Berkeley, who was assisted in the religious portions of the program by three Virginia Beach boys, Waverly Dickens, III, George Barker, Jr., and Charles Purinton.

In one of the most costly residential fires ever recorded at Virginia Beach, the uncompleted two-story, 12-room residence in Birdneck Point belonging to J. C. Kessler was completely destroyed Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

The new residence, which would have cost approximately $60,000, was the victim of two outbreaks of fire. The first fire broke out in the apartment, according to Chief E. B. Bayne, received the alarm and responded at 9:40 o'clock Monday night. They extinguished the fire and left the owner to watch for any outbreaks at 1 a. m.

One hour after the firemen left, the owner concluded that the fire was completely extinguished and he departed. At 3:35 a. m. firemen were again summoned to the same address and found the house completely enveloped in flames.

Seemingly immediately the responsibility of saving any part of the house firemen set about salvaging furniture that was stored in the building. They managed to save a good portion of the furniture, some of which was blistered by the intense heat.

It was learned that a portion of the house's value was covered by insurance.

State-Wide Safety Conference Set For May 15, 16, 17 In Richmond

"How to bring Virginia out of the national disgrace she has achieved with 915 traffic deaths in 1950 and 999 in 1951," will be the main point of discussion for the Street and Highway Section of the 18th Virginia State-Wide Safety Conference to be held May 15, 16 and 17 in Richmond, according to the section chairman, Captain W. L. Groth, State Police safety engineer and Deputy Administrator of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

Discussion panels will be slanted toward individual responsibility, both official and non-official, with many prominent figures from other parts of the country participating as well as safety leaders from within Virginia.

"During 1950, Virginia established the 11th worst traffic death rate among our 48 states, and although statistics for comparing the 1951 death rates are not yet completed nationally, our record for that year will be no better, if not worse," Captain Groth stated, at the same time emphasizing that the problem of traffic safety has become so tremendous that it has become individual as well as official. "Since, unless we are bed-ridden, we are all exposed to traffic at one time or another and the traffic menace is no respecter of persons, all of us should realize we have a responsibility not only to protect our own lives but to see no one else is harmed through our actions," he continued.

Prominent out-of-state speakers to be heard will include Dr. Herbert J. Stack, director of the Center for

Banquet Planned For May 16th in School Gym

The Junior-Senior banquet will be held in the Kempville High School gymnasium on Friday, May 16. The banquet will be "Appetizing Time."

The juniors have worked hard all year to earn money for this event. The night in the year the school is turned into a fairland of color and dreamy music. On the night of the great all hardships of the past are forgotten. "Who's you taking?" and "I've got two dates—what shall I do?" are the two main questions heard around school before the "big night."

The decorations will consist of three shades of green and three of pink crepe paper. The decorations will be arranged to give the gym an appearance of a room within a room. The card tables will be arranged in single club style around the gym floor. The dinner will be served buffet style and will consist of fruit cocktail, turkey, ham, potato salad, hot rolls and butter, olives, stuffed celery, coffee or milk and ice cream. Dinner will be served from eight until nine o'clock, and a floor show from nine until ten. Dancing will be from ten until one. The program will be as follows:

The Emanuel Episcopal Church, Kempville, was the setting for the exchange of vows between Miss Emily Joyce Brinkley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Brinkley, of Kempville, and William Gordon Toorne, son of Mrs. Ruth Laporte, of Chicago. Officiating at the three o'clock ceremony was the Rev. Oscar Taylor, rector of the church. The altar was arranged with white gladioli, greens and lighted candles.

Given in marriage by her brother, John H. Brinkley, the bride wore a white Palm Beach suit with navy and white accessories, and carried a heart-shaped bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with white orchids. Matron of honor and only attendant for the bride was Mrs. R. L. O'Brien, Jr., who wore a gold Palm Beach suit with mushroom and white accessories and carried a heart-shaped bouquet of brown gold chrysanthemums, centered with matching cymbidium orchids.

Best man for Mr. Toorne was Richard Windley, of Norfolk, and groomsmen were Robert Barrow and James Barritz.

A reception at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brinkley, Bayview Boulevard, followed the ceremony.

For the wedding trip to Chicago, the bride wore a suit of navy blue, with white and navy accessories.

Mary Washington Offers Scholarship In Music School

Announcement from Fredericksburg early this week was made that a full scholarship, covering both tuition and complete living expenses, has been made available by an anonymous donor to a talented music student living in the Norfolk-Princess Anne-Portsmouth area to study at the Summer School of Music at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia.

The scholarship will be for a player of flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon or french horn. The winner will attend the intensive course being offered at Mary Washington College, in Fredericksburg, by the New York Woodwind Quintet from July 7 to 18. Features of this course are daily private lessons and courses in ensemble; demonstration lectures, and attendance at the faculty concerts given by members of the visiting quintet.

According to Edgar Schenkman, director of the summer school, residents of Virginia Beach, Princess Anne County, Norfolk or Portsmouth and surrounding county areas, are eligible. The successful candidate will be selected on the basis of an audition. All interested wind players are asked to telephone Mr. Schenkman at Norfolk 35751 for an appointment. They must be students at one of the high schools in this area. Mr. Schenkman will welcome the cooperation of the various school band leaders in bringing their most promising students to the attention of the summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage Honor Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Savage, Jr., entertained at a dance on April 10 at the American Legion Clubhouse honoring their daughter, Miss Eva Lee Savage.

Music was furnished by the "Night Hawk" orchestra of Norfolk. The club was attractively arranged with yellow flowers, evergreens and candles. The table was spread with imported cut-work cloth.

Senior 4-H Club Has Busy Month

April 1

Club members sent magazines and eight floral arrangements to various nursing homes and hospitals in the Norfolk area.

April 2

Club meeting was held. Under new business, plans were made for 4-H Easter activities.

April 3

Mrs. Jean Moody, State 4-H reporter from Blacksburg, visited the Kempsville club. Very much impressed with what she saw, she gathered material for a story on the club's work, and took pictures of the club members engaged in the following activities: Individual project work, club project work, good with projects, demonstrations, and the modeling of the latest fashions by county district clothing contestants.

Project meeting was held at the home of Shirley Humphries, club president, and material was distributed to members enrolled in the clothing project. This material will be used for the making of neat little green and white 4-H club aprons to be used when the club serves at various dinners and other special affairs.

April 7, 8 and 9

Club members worked on Easter favors for the trays of hospital patients.

April 8

A display of 4-H Easter favors was held and much admired by all of the many visitors who attended. "Anne Lee" chocolate covered Easter eggs were given as prizes to the 4-H members who had made the prettiest and most original favors. Winners were Tita Jones, Mrs. Louise C. Lee and Margie Woollyhand. Judges for the contest were Mrs. Mary Barnes and Allen Tyler.

April 9

Club officers and sponsor spent the day in Blacksburg attending annual recreation meet. Miss Catherine L. Allen of the Physical Education and Recreation Department of the University of Tennessee was recreational leader. Many new games, dances and songs were learned to be introduced later to other club members.

April 10

Easter baskets, contributed by the club, were delivered to Trafalgar-Robertson to be sent on to the underprivileged and hospitalized children in the Norfolk area.

April 12

Sixty Easter favors were delivered to Norfolk nursing homes and hospitals. Magazines were delivered to hospital wards.

April 13

Forty club members attended the Easter sunrise service which was held at the Talbot Park Baptist Church. Twenty-five club members had breakfast together downtown at the YMCA cafeteria.

April 14

Punch was poured by Mrs. Marguerite Shelly, Mrs. George Aldridge and Mrs. C. H. Nelms.

Other chaperones included George Aldridge, C. H. Nelms and Mr. and Mrs. Gillette Bryant of Courtland. Guests numbered 130.

Members held a picnic and spent the day together at City Park.

April 16

Club meeting was held and after business had been presented, reviewed, and settled, new songs which had been learned at the recreational meet were introduced to the club.

A special Rural Electrification project meeting was held. The program included lectures and demonstrations by personnel from the Virginia Electric Power Company.

April 17

4-H girls of the club helped prepare and served dinner for 4-H Club members who were carrying a baby beef project. These members brought their sponsors and parents to this dinner.

April 22

Club sponsor, Mrs. Louise C. Lee, and leader, Mrs. R. F. Humphries, attended a banquet given by the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce in honor of the 4-H leaders of this section. Both Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Humphries have served for ten years as voluntary leaders of the Kempsville club and received certificates and gold pins for their work. Mrs. Lee spoke to the group on opportunities of 4-H leaders to work with club members. Dr. Skelton from Blacksburg gave the main address of the evening.

April 23

Ten members entered 4-H exhibits in the County Science Fair. Five won prizes. These exhibits included the full length plays of model home grounds, kinds of grass and a miniature farm.

April 26

Sent flower arrangements to Norfolk project.

Tomorrow night, May 2, at eight o'clock in the Ocean High School Auditorium the Spring show entitled "Ocean Band Talent Hunt," will be presented by the Ocean School Band.

Under the baton of the director, James A. Cantwell, the band will render several selections. Included in the variety program will be a musical quiz in which adults from the audience will be chosen to participate. This program is to be one of the highlights of the program as members of the band render selections and the audience participants attempt to identify them.

Another attraction will be the crowning of a Junior Queen of the band, and a Senior Queen. The Junior Queen is being chosen this week from 19 contestants in the grammar grades of the school and the Senior Queen from 14 aspirants in the High School. Those receiving the most votes, which are being sold at a penny each, will be crowned at the show tomorrow night.

The following committees are at work on the production:

New Bulletins And Circulars Give Tips for Farmers and Homemakers

Several new or revised bulletins and circulars, with timely tips of interest to Virginia farmers and homemakers, are now available.

Circular 475, "Vegetable Garden Suggestions for Virginia," has been revised to include the latest information on the best varieties to plant. A feature of the circular is the vegetable chart showing the recommended variety, the number of seed or plants per 100 feet of row, planting time, and yields expected. Also included are recommendations for control of diseases and insects.

Bulletin 194, "Good Pastures—Your Cheapest Food," says that good pastures don't happen by chance. The publication tells what goes into the making of good pastures in various areas of the State. Recommendations on seed mixtures to use, when to seed, and on fertilizing and liming are given for each climatic area. The bulletin also lists pointers on improvement of pasture sods.

Bulletin 196, "Case Studies of Father-Son Farm Agreements," is a study of the now common practice of fathers and sons to farm together. This publication provides reference material of the actual experiences of others.

USDA Home and Garden Series No. 9, "Suburban and Farm Vegetable Gardens," is intended for country-wide distribution, and gives general information on such topics as garden sites, seed, plants, equipment, canning, freezing and storing vegetables for home use.

Princess Anne Countians are advised to contact County Agent H. W. Ozlin for copies of the wanted bulletins.

DOUBLE-COURSED SIDEWALLS Lead Charm to Your Home

Double-coursing means double layers of Centigrade cedar shingles for substantial walls. Cost is no greater than the old method of shingle-coursing because of wider weather exposure and the use of Red Label or No. 3 grade shingles for the under-course.

Double-coursed sidewalls create attractive deep shadow lines. Extra insulation cuts fuel costs in winter and keeps the home cooler in summer.

180 HP CHRYSLER V8 FIRST IN 3 CLASSES IN ECONOMY RUN!

Here is truly dramatic proof that Chrysler's great new FirePower 180 HP V-8 engine design sets an entirely new standard of efficiency among American passenger car engines!

In this annual economy test, rigidly supervised, and limited strictly to stock car entrants, cars competing are divided, by price and size, into 11 standard classes. The route, from Los Angeles to Sun Valley, covered 1,416 miles of every possible kind of driving. Average speed for all cars was just under 41 miles per hour.

And in 3 of the 11 classes, the Chrysler V-8 engine was best for gasoline mileage.

In Class "F", this magnificent new engine won first place for a Saratoga 6-passenger sedan (123 1/2-inch wheelbase, 4010 pounds). In Class "H", it won first honors for a Saratoga model 8-passenger sedan (139 1/4-inch wheelbase, 4510 pounds). And in the top price and size, Class "I", it was again first, in a Chrysler Crown Imperial Sedan (145 1/4-inch wheelbase, 8360 pounds).

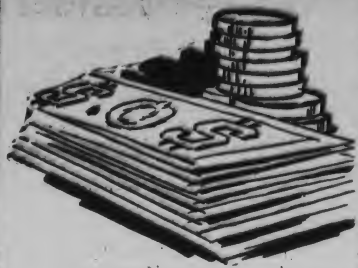

To travel these substantial cars at this speed under these conditions gives additional proof, we believe, that here in the FirePower V-8 engine is the finest and most efficient engine ever put into an American passenger car!

WE INVITE YOU TO DRIVE THIS ENGINE, YOURSELF...

The same engine which has just scored these remarkable accomplishments is no farther from you than your own Chrysler Dealer. He will welcome the chance to let you take the wheel and feel for yourself what Chrysler has done... not only in engine performance, but in power steering, power brakes, new shock absorbers, passenger comfort... to deserve the title: "Finest Car America Has Yet Produced!"

'Career Day' At Oceana Is Success

As a result of lively discussions which took place in 18 vocational groups, each of which was headed by an outstanding person in each of the respective fields, the students of Oceana High School feel as if they are now in a better position to select the vocation most nearly in keeping with their capacities and abilities.

The general program held in the high school auditorium at 9:30 on Monday, April 21, was presided over by M. P. Strickler, principal. Devotions were led by the Rev. R. P. Davis, pastor of the Virginia Beach Presbyterian Church, and special music was rendered by the church choir under the direction of Mrs. Aldridge. The Rev. P. Roland Wagner, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Norfolk, gave a most inspiring talk, portraying in a convincing manner the necessary essentials for a successful and happy career.

The students went from the auditorium to the special meetings for vocational groups. The groups represented and the individuals presiding over them included:

Aviation, Robert E. Carlin; Agriculture, Robert Young; Armed Forces, Lieut. S. J. Shea; Art and Dramatics, R. H. Fleet; Business, Miss Hazel Shaffer; Doctors, Dr. W. L. Taylor; Engineering, Col. R. Wagner; Music, Dr. Glenn Gildersleeve; newspaper, William Sander; Nursing, Miss Ruby Jones and Miss Mary Haff; Teaching, Mrs. K. G. Cover; Telephone, Mrs. Sylvia Facetta and O. O. Ashworth.

Quick and Easy; GOES A LONG WAY

You may want to make two of these, for they'll surely ask for more. And there's really no extra trouble for you, since you'll be using your favorite brand of self-rising flour that's so quick and easy, and gets such fine results.

You'll be delighted, too, with the time-saving self-rising flour, for you will work the dough as lightly as possible, you needn't let it stand, and you bake as soon as your preparations have been completed.

STRAWBERRY ROLL SUPREMACY

4 egg yolks
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
4 egg whites
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup sifted self-rising flour

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in the 1/2 cup sugar and vanilla. Beat egg whites until almost stiff. Add the 1/2 cup sugar, a tablespoonful at a time, beating well between additions. Continue beating until mixture is very stiff but not dry. Fold yolks into whites. Sift flour over egg mixture and fold it in carefully. Bake in a wafled paper-lined 10 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1 inch jelly roll pan in a moderate oven (375°F.) for 12 minutes. Loosen sides and turn out onto a level sprinkled with confectioners' sugar. Remove wafled paper; sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, and roll tightly with towel inside the roll. Cool. Unroll, spread with Strawberry Whipped Cream filling, and roll again. Wrap with waxed paper and chill in refrigerator until ready to serve. Yield: 10 to 12 slices.

FILLING

3 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1 1/2 cups whipping cream
1 pint strawberries, sliced and sweetened
1/2 cup sugar

Measure water into a small saucepan. Sprinkle gelatin over water and let stand 5 minutes. Place pan in a larger pan of boiling water and let stand until gelatin is dissolved. Cool slightly. Whip the cream, adding the slightly cooled gelatin after cream starts to stiffen. When stiff, add the 1/2 cup sugar and the sweetened strawberries, and spread on cake roll as directed above.

Household Hints

I derive a great deal of pleasure out of my bug-free home, and in my estimation, a really clean home is a bug-free home. Nothing is so embarrassing to a good housekeeper as to have fifty bugs appear when you are entertaining guests. This will inevitably happen if bugs are present in your home.

In addition to the aforementioned, most types of bugs are very destructive. I personally can't understand why any woman would put up with a household of bugs when it is so easy to have a clean, bug-free home with the insecticide I use—Real-Kill Bug Killer and Real-Kill Insect Bomb.

It is a simple matter when cleaning a home to use this fine insecticide from attic to basement, by just following the simple instructions printed on the label, which not only takes care of any moth, roach, ant, silver fish, water bug, and other household insect problem, but also prevents mildew and mold growth, too.

VERY CONTAGIOUS DISEASE FOR BERRY GROWERS

Spray or dust now to control spottedwings and other pests in strawberry plantings. John M. Jones, insect and disease specialist at VPI, says spottedwings are numerous in commercial plantings, and a spray or dust should be applied at once.

Lindane, chlordane, DDT or dithionchlor is suggested for control of strawberry pests, such as millipedes, plant bugs, and spottedwings. If the material is applied before the fruit forms, there is no danger of harmful residue on the fruit at harvest.

Blackberry growers are advised to spray their plantations to control plant bugs which feed on the buds and cause the fruit to be deformed.

More complete information is available from county agents or from the Agricultural Extension Service at VPI, Blacksburg.

Farmers can get soil record sheets, with instructions on taking samples, soil boxes, and shipping cartons from county agents or other agricultural workers in the county.

A banquet, beginning at 7:30 in the Casino Room, was given in their honor, and everyone had his choice of either a delicious shrimp or chicken dinner.

The entire evening was a hilarious affair. The girls were dressed in frilly blouses, overalls, and men's heavy work shoes. They bloused. They were not allowed to wear any makeup, bobby pins, or hair clips of any kind. A black smock was carried from every upper lip.

The boys wore padded trousers, stockings, high heels or moccasins, hats with veils, and all kinds of study jewelry. Each carried a baby doll, and from every neck hung a delicate onion necklace. All the boys were made up with eye shadow, lipstick and rouge.

The occasion was very successful and enjoyed by everyone present.

CUT THE VINE THAT CHOKES

IT'S A FREE COUNTRY

We still a free country. If there had been any doubt of this matter in the minds of Princess Anne County folks, it was dispelled last week when Francis Pickens Miller, at the invitation of a local group, spoke in our midst. Aside from giving the good people of Princess Anne a chance to see in person the opponent of Virginia's senior senator, the Hon. Harry Flood Byrd, for the Democratic nomination for the Senate, we can see little his trip accomplished, except, perhaps, to identify some of the elements of our community who are, as usual, "afraid" anything and everything "that is."

Certainly, Mr. Miller went a long way round to cook up campaign issues when he belabored the absent Mr. Byrd, who, although invited to be present, was absent because of previous commitments, for not joining tooth and nail in the fight against this and that already being waged by very able men in Washington. If Mr. Miller would seek to imply that Senator Byrd is not opposed to corruption in government, or confidence in, he has another thought coming. Harry Flood Byrd's record in the Senate of the United States has always found him allied with the forces of clean government—a foe of corruption. On this score Senator Byrd needs no apologies by us or anyone else—his record speaks for itself. On a more practical plane, it should be pointed out that Mr. Byrd has consistently kept his eyes focused on the "bigger game." He is known throughout the land for his endeavors to produce a balanced budget and cut out the malignant growths which are sapping the life of our economy.

From rumors afloat, it would appear that Mr. Miller is too much of a Trumanite to even raise a feeble voice in the fight against government waste and "give-away" spending.

Mr. Byrd has made his share of enemies—any man who pleads for common sense in a world bent on madness will make the same enemies. But by launching a typical "anarchist" attack on Mr. Byrd in his announcement, and following it by more of the same, with added innuendoes in his appearance here, Mr. Miller paints a true picture of his candidacy—and of himself.

One thing is certain: The candidacy of Francis Pickens Miller will prove—after the votes are counted—that Virginians have great faith in Harry Byrd and his philosophy of government economy—so ably demonstrated in his own Virginia, and which would work equally as well nation-wide if given a chance.

That Virginia will return Mr. Byrd to the Senate is without question. But it is good for the right thinking voters to have the issues threshed out in a primary contest. They will then realize how sound are Senator Byrd's policies, and how much his campaign for economy means to them.

MENTAL HEALTH

With the observance of National Health Week our attention has been drawn naturally to the subject of health, and particularly mental health. Just what is health? We like the definition supplied in the constitution of the World Health Organization which reads—"health is a state of complete physical, mental, and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

In a pamphlet published by the National Association for Mental Health the characteristics of good mental health are listed as (1) feeling comfortable about yourself; (2) feeling right about other people; (3) being able to meet the demands of life.

There are many people who are not blessed with these characteristics and the Mental Hygiene Society of Virginia is an organization dedicated to helping these people. The Norfolk-Princess Anne Chapter of this Society is active locally in aiding those mentally sick.

It is alarming to note that one out of every 10 persons in the United States has some form of mental or emotional maladjustment. That almost half of our hospital beds—665,000—are occupied by persons with serious mental illness.

It is comforting to know that organizations such as the Mental Hygiene Society of Virginia and its chapters are on hand to aid in preventing the decay of our mental health.

Well Down the Road

We are... not only on the road to national bankruptcy, but so far down that road that only a complete reversal of policy can keep the nation from going over the brink. When and if bankruptcy does arrive we shall be in the same situation that marked Germany after the first world war, when its currency became so valueless that shoppers going to market carried their money in a basket and brought home their purchases in their coat pockets.—Bedford, Va., Bulletin.

The man who has no children is always an authority on how to raise children—just as the man without money always knows best how you should invest yours.

Dull conversations continue until somebody says something bright, and then everybody laughs and promptly make their escape.

It takes only a little jack to lift a car up, but a lot of jack to keep it up.

Maybe you can't always be best, but you can always be better.

By choosing a husband will stand without hitching, he's hardly worth owing.

DALE CARNEGIE

APPEASING AN IRATE CITIZEN

M. G. Estes, Richmond, Cal., was employed as a deputy clerk and had more or less specialized in election work. One day, after the primary election, he was called by another clerk to help with a very irate citizen with the coldest blue eyes he ever saw.

"What is the matter?" he asked... and he smiled... "Can I be of some service to you?"

The angry man said that his registration had been cancelled, and went on to say many things about people who wouldn't let good American citizens and taxpayers vote. What were our boys fighting for? Hostility and belligerency but mildly describe his manner.

When he had given both barrels and a re-load or two, Mr. Estes suggested that they check the record, saying that frequently mistakes were made. The record showed that the irate man was right. It was his name, not his, that should have been cancelled.

Mr. Estes quickly decided to take the full blame for the incident. Although still adamant, the man showed signs of softening, sufficient for Mr. Estes to offer an explanation that due to the fact that 30,000 affidavits had been processed in less than ten days, it was necessary to hire green help. This green help had doubtless made the mistake. Victory seemed in sight, but at this moment the old boy decided on another fling.

and said, "Well, sonny, I want to know what you are going to do about letting me vote."

What to say next... yet keep down trouble! Finally, he decided to make an appeal to the man's intelligence and honesty. He had thought that under the law the man understood it was now impossible for him to vote. "Well, sir," he said, "you can vote, but we both will be committing felonies and breaking the law that gives you the right to vote. Is that what you want? I have tried every way to help that I can. If this man had been called to our station election day, we would have been very glad to rectify it, but it is too late now."

After thinking it over for a moment, he said, "Well, son, maybe I have been a little harsh with you, but I've been mad ever since election day. Just you be sure that my name is on that list at the next election."

With those words he left.

THE PETTY PACE

By Sam L. Yates

May we recommend Cleveland, Ohio, as a comfortable place to get a toothache?

You rush to a dentist's office, and as soon as you're in the chair, you moan, "Is this gonna hurt, Doc?" "Where do you think you are?" the dentist soothes you. "This is no dentist's office, you know. This is a luxurious raft on the Nile. Two dozen voluptuous harem girls are reclining on that oriental rug over there. I'm Cleopatra getting ready to give you a pedicure. Open your mouth, please."

But you won't leap from the chair and flee from a dangerous maniac. You'll take a good look at the oriental rug to assure yourself that the harem-girls are still there, and then settle back and open your mouth with a sigh of contentment. You'll be hypnotized.

Cleveland dentists are using hypnosis successfully to relieve patients of the pain and dread of the drill. You climb aboard the torture seat and look at the dentist wiggle his finger before your eyes and listen to him murmur in sonorous tones that you're dropping off to sleep with your head on Schahrazade's lap. When your eyes get hazy, an Arabian princess asks you to point out the offending molar, while far away a senseless voice suggests the king's favorite is dancing before you. Novocaine is replaced by some oriental ketchup juice that you believe you are quaffing and the whining drill sounds like a magic flute.

When he's through, the dentist plants a suggestion in your subconscious mind that you return in six months and another suggestion that you pay your bill, and then wakes you up. The bill generally brings you out of the spell right quick.

The Cleveland dentists must be a relief after the evil Dr. Jerk who uses hypnosis slyly, not to alleviate pain but to make it more acute—gives you the double whammy and convinces your subconscious that the drill is not a magic flute but indeed a dentist's drill, that you are a crocodile with jaws agape and a toothache in all 200 teeth and a porcupine under your tongue.

Plans were made at the last county committee meeting to get silverware. The clubs are donating the spoons. We are now in a position to carry out any type program. The clubs that have made use of the kitchen and equipment have already realized the convenience and pleasure it is to have such a place.

Another accomplishment was the writing and adoption by the clubs of the County Federation Constitution and By-Laws, which were completed and printed in our Year Books. Since that time the newly proposed offices have been filled. With the help of those officers we feel we are a stronger organization and capable of carrying on a better program that will reach many more people.

With these two major accomplishments completed, it was agreed that our year was a successful one.

Among those attending besides Mrs. McClannan and Mrs. Thompson were: Mrs. Henry McClannan from the Pungo Club; Mrs. C. E. Upton, Mrs. Ellen Barnes, Mrs. Jack McClannan, Mrs. L. R. Raymond V. Long, director of the State's Division of Planning and Economic Development, will open the May 13 session with a review on "Planning and Zoning Legislation, 1923 Modifications," and Hardee Chambliss, Fairfax attorney, will speak on "Legal Aspects of Zoning."

William B. Spick, field secretary of the League of Virginia Counties, will preside at the morning session, and Dr. James E. Fife, professor of political science, William and Mary College, at the afternoon session.

In the afternoon, W. H. Caldwell, chief of the Division of Economic Development of the State Division of Planning and Economic Development, will lead a panel on subdivision control, a problem that has been exaggerated in the past five years by the building boom in many areas of Virginia.

At present, Caldwell notes, only 16 cities, 14 counties, and 19 towns have instituted controls on proper development of land, but any community in the State might be called on to cope with sudden "growing pains" by the creation of a new industry, an air base, a dam, or some other feature of the fast changing modern era scene.

Suburban control provides for the orderly development of streets, the size of lots, and the guarantee of utilities.

"In the not-so-distant days," said Caldwell, "streets to adjoining subdivisions often came to dead ends, and homes were sold without regard to water supply and sewage facilities."

Some of the biggest boosters of subdivision control are the builders themselves, Caldwell says. Although only half of the localities in Virginia are under subdivision control, Caldwell cited several areas which may need it soon.

These include Southside Virginia in the Buggs Island area; Fredericksburg due to an expanding rayon plant and new military construction at A. P. Hill and Quantico; Prince William County, because of the mushrooming Washington metropolitan area and Quantico; Princess Anne County because of the new jet air base at Oceana; Norfolk County, to take care of the overflow from the city of Norfolk; James City County, construction of a branch of the Dow Chemical Company and expansion of Port Royal, and Chincoteague and Accomac County, expansion of naval facilities.

"No area is immune from sudden growth," Caldwell said. Other panel members on subdivision control will be A. H. Brooks, of Richmond, laid planner with the Federal Housing Authority; Mrs. Donald Wilkins, of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and Planning Commission; Kenneth McWane, traffic and planning engineer in the State Highway Department; B. F.

IF YOUR RANGE has aluminum burners, wipe with a damp cloth after each use. For burned spots, use a metal cleaner. Chromium burners should be cleaned with a damp cloth, also.

Enamel burners on gas ranges need cleaning as soon as any food spills on them. If allowed to remain, it becomes difficult to remove.

A soft brush is best for cleaning the coils on the electric range. Or the glass top a damp cloth or a brush are indicated, never some sharp instrument.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Pudding Paucakes O'Brien (Makes 1)
1 egg, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons each, minced onion, green pepper, and pineapple
Salt and pepper to taste
2 cups (firmly packed) grated raw potatoes
Mix eggs and flour until smooth; stir in milk; add remaining ingredients. (Put and grate potatoes just before adding to batter to prevent their darkening). Drop mixture in circles (1/4 cup each) on well greased griddle. Bake over medium heat about 5 minutes on each side, or until potatoes are tender. These are delicious with hot roast or with ham or bacon and eggs for breakfast.
If food spills in an oven, try to get it out immediately with a pan-cake turner or a similar instrument. When the oven has cooled, scrub with brush and use scouring powder. Leave the oven door open until dry, so that no burned food or cleaner odor will remain. Freezing unit pans and trays from the refrigerator should be removed and washed in hot soapy water, then rinsed well. The same applies to racks and shelves. The inside of the refrigerator is best washed with cool water in which one tablespoon of borax or baking soda has been dissolved. Rinse with a clean damp cloth and wipe dry. This all helps to cut down odors.

Old Room is headed by Miss Margaret Switzer and Mrs. N. A. Whitman. Facing Room, chairman Mrs. Raymond Pritchard, co-chairman, Mrs. W. M. Thompson and Mrs. Howard Adams.

Miss Elizabeth Gregory Hill is chairman of Judges. Judge clerk is Mrs. George Roush, chairman, and Mrs. Martin Simmons.

Business for the show open to registration of 8:00 p. m., Saturday, May 10, to the public at 2 p. m. The hours are: Saturday 2 p. m. to 10 p. m., and Sunday 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Safety Conference Set For Richmond

Richmond, May 7.—The Marine Section of the Virginia State-Wide Safety Conference, to be held here May 15, 16 and 17 with headquarters in Hotel Jefferson, offers a most interesting and valuable program to public officials, traffic and transportation interests, terminal operators, freight forwarders, boat owners and operators, and others, according to George H. Curtis, Jr., of Norfolk, chairman of that section.

The program marine-wise is concentrated in one day, Friday, the 16th, and includes: during the forenoon, an address of welcome to the delegates of the section and remarks on the "Ports of Virginia," by Commander Raymond B. Bottom of Newport News, followed with addresses by Day Lowry, of Richmond, Past Commodore, Fifth Coast Guard District, on "Small Boat Safety," and M. P. Redford, safety supervisor of the Norfolk Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation on "Hazardous Cargoes."

In the afternoon, Commander Thomas W. McConville, USNR, of Washington, will speak to the section on "Fire Fighting Aboard Ship," with Captain Marion Amos of the U. S. Coast Guard, at Norfolk, presenting the subject of "Terminal Safety"; for variety, King Neptune in the person of Dr. Carl S. Frischkorn of Norfolk will entertain the section with thirty minutes of magic. The subject of "Handling Cargo Safely" will be presented by Captain Lewis X. Cleary, U.S.A., Marine Branch Transportation School, Fort Eustis, and "Training—a Prerequisite to Safety in Shipbuilding" will be discussed by F. K. White, Director of Education and Training, Apprentice School, Newport News.

Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

Herman J. Nordstrom, Safety Superintendent of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, and M. P. Redford are co-chairmen of the section. Governor John S. Battle serves as general chairman, Victor B. Fitzpatrick, executive chairman and Col. Wm. M. Myers, executive secretary of the conference that embraces 15 sections on all phases of safety.

Service Personnel in Area Active in Religious Life of Community

Service personnel and their families in the Tidewater area do go to church on Sunday. They not only go, as a matter of fact, but many take an active part in the church program as well.

Take for example the Young Adult Class of the First Baptist Church in Virginia Beach.

This class, which takes its topics for study directly from the Bible, meets Sunday morning, has grown from six to forty persons within the last year. Seventy-five per cent of the class is made up of military personnel.

Their teacher is Mrs. E. W. Meachum, wife of Commander Meachum, Amphibious Force Chaplain of Little Creek.

At present the members of the Young Adult Class hold their regular Sunday meetings in the library of the Community House at Virginia Beach, pending completion of the new Baptist Church at 35th Street and Holly Road about June 1.

Their monthly business meetings, however, are held in the homes of the members. A different one each time—civilian and military personnel alike.

The class was originally formed in June, 1951, its purpose to bring together people in the same age group for a common cause—to study the Bible. At the end of each meeting an open discussion is held on the lesson. These meetings are presided over by Mrs. Meachum.

To add to the activities of the Young Adults, they sponsor a nursery which takes care of the small children during the regular church services.

They are also active socially by preparing baskets of fruit for the sick, and supplying large quantities of clothing for the poor.

The social committee is headed by Mrs. Mary Holt, the wife of a Navy Lieutenant.

As a Matter of Fact...

Out of all the newspapers and magazine columns I read, the ones I enjoy most are those that put in a whole lot of facts—unrelated facts, but each one an interesting bit of information in itself.

These columns go something like this: "Did you know that humpback whales are addicted to morphine? That bees have been bred with red, brown, and buff-color eyes?"

"Did you know that lead can be converted to gold—at a cost of $1,000,000 an ounce? That a 556-pound fat girl went on a diet and lost 101 pounds in 12 months? That a chrysanthemum has been developed that smells like a violet?"

From where I sit, maybe you a kind of "Johnny-on-the-spot." My extra column always seems to revolve around one idea—a plea for us to make sure we respect the other fellow's rights—like the right to vote for your own choice or the right to enjoy a glass of beer now and then. I may not be in style, but I believe my one fact is worth repeating—and remembering!

'Samson and Delilah' DeMille Super Spectacle, At Drive-In This Weekend

Capit B. DeMille's Paramount production of "Samson and Delilah" which opens Sunday at the Virginia Beach Drive-In Theatre on Laskin Road, is one of the most famous from the master of Biblical spectacle and will go down in history as one of the greatest moving pictures of all time, according to the critics.

This Technicolor spectacle makes an undeniably big screen immensity with a story that has the magic sweep of an epic and a cast that obviously was inspired rather than acted by the monumental challenge the picture presented.

The highest praise is bestowed on the incomparable performances of Hedy Lamarr and Victor Mature, in the title roles. As the bewitching Delilah whose voluptuous charms enticed a man whose mighty armies had failed, Miss Lamarr is undeniably beautiful in her first Technicolor film. And she proves herself a dramatic actress of fine and persuasion. Ranging the emotional scale from infinite tenderness to burning hatred, she is superb.

Mature, also, has a particularly difficult role with imagination and finesse, keeping Samson always within the bounds of credibility, never once succumbing to what would have been an excusable urge to overplay the strong prey to Delilah's seductive charms, as any man might, or performing prodigious feats of strength. Mature makes Samson a real and dynamic character. Magnificent is the word for his performance.

The same adjective can be applied to practically every member of the cast which numbers more than a thousand. But particular mention is merited by the work of George Sanders as the suave Saran of Gaza; Angela Lansbury, DeMille's beautiful sister; and Harry Wilson, the determined leader of the Philistine armies. Under DeMille's astute direction, they contribute immeasurably to the greatness of "Samson and De-

Miss Ann Leighton Officer of Club

Miss Ann Leighton Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Macle Simmons of Virginia Beach, a junior majoring in psychology at Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, will serve as vice-president of the Psychology Club next year.

Sydney T. Ellis In Executive Post

Sydney T. Ellis has been named a vice-president of Commercial Solvents Corporation, it was announced today by J. Albert Woods, president. His principal responsibility will be in connection with the company's expansion and development program. During the past year Mr. Ellis served as assistant to the president, in which capacity he will continue.

A chemical engineering graduate from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, he has been associated with the chemical industry since 1934. During World War II he served as a lieutenant colonel with the Army Engineering Corps in the Pacific and C. B. I. theatres.

Mr. Ellis is a member of the Commercial Chemical Development Association and the American Chemical Society.

Mr. Ellis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Sydney Ellis of 3305 Lakeside Drive, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

DeMille has staged many spectacular scenes in his motion pictures, but nothing he has done surpasses the destruction of the Philistine temple by the blinded Samson. To miss "Samson and Delilah" is to do yourself a disservice. To see it is to enjoy one of the greatest films in Hollywood ever has produced.

New Trout Season Date Effect Being Scanned by Agency

Effects of the new opening of trout season on May 1 are being watched with interest. Whether it will relieve some of the intense pressure on the trout streams on opening day, and whether it will reduce forest fires from campers will be observed.

Never before have a more beautiful lot of trout been placed in Virginia's streams and weather conditions permitted the stocking of most of the 132 streams well in advance of the season. All told there were about 150 tons of adult brooks and rainbows released.

Most of these fish will have had a chance to take on some of the hues of native trout and adapt themselves to living in the wild.

Game Planting on Private Lands Grows Rapidly in Virginia; Began in June, '48

Acceptance of the idea of planting for game on privately-owned lands is spreading throughout Virginia with amazing rapidity. This is particularly remarkable in view of the fact that the project only started July 1, 1948, as a part of the State's first published long-range wildlife program.

In the Spring of 1949 there were many who felt that it was fantastic to try to induce any great numbers of farmers to plant for upland game as a means of increasing the overall abundance. Year after year there has been a steady and surprising increase in the numbers of landowners enthusiastically engaged in planting for game on their lands.

The result has been that, thus far, farms embracing over 3,000,000 acres have been permanently improved through definite efforts to provide better habitat with seed-bearing plants. While plantings for game have been particularly heavy in the Piedmont and eastern counties, there is lots of activity this Spring in the areas west of the Blue Ridge with the development of an early-blooming strain of shrub lespedeza which will escape the early frosts in the uplands.

Detail of their progress are shown in their quarterly reports. Their consolidated report for the first quarter of this year reveals the systematic way in which the planting program is conducted. Their report for the next quarter—April, May and June—will show definite totals for this year's planting.

Principal activity for the first quarter was delivery of wildlife. Mrs. W. C. Griffin will speak to the Lake Joyce club on May 14 on "Flower Arrangements in the Ornamental Garden." The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. B. Frazer.

planting materials — all of which are supplied free — and placing the plants in the hands of the farmers in their "off season." Shrub lespedeza plants were delivered free, 2,000,000 of them — which were trucked to central locations in each district. Then followed delivery of over 4,200 pounds of shrub lespedeza seed which were packed in one-pound containers.

These came delivery, packaging and distribution of almost 18 tons of seed of various plants, mostly annuals. A large part of the demand for these seed-bearing materials is from farmers who wish to give the game a start while the slower-growing perennials are being established. Included were over 9,000 pounds of seed of various lespedeza which is a perennial. This is a new strain which has a more profuse growth.

Included in this year's plantings were 8,300 pounds of milk vetch seed and 17,800 pounds of alfalfa annual seeds. The majority of all these materials was distributed through the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service's 22 districts in the State. Much went to interested sportsmen and farmer sportsmen who were directly interested in improving their shooting.

Early in each year the game technicians make a survey to determine an approximation of the total materials that will be needed. Even year thus far it has been found that there are so many farmers interested in their plans to plant for game that 20 per cent is added to the original orders. This year even a 20 per cent margin was enough, and there have been substantial orders of certain seeds outside the close of the quarter.

Later on the technicians will make a survey of all plantings with a view to checking and observing the extent of growth. During the Spring months, when plantings are at their height, the game technicians work closely with the Soil Conservation technicians and with the local game warden.

TEMPORARILY LOCATED IN THE BEACH THEATRE BUILDING

To you — our FIRST WELCOME WAGON HOSTESS — whoever you were —

WE SALUTE YOU

Thank you for a fine American Custom. We are grateful to you — our forefathers, for this wonderful heritage of FRIENDLINESS.

WELCOME TO

When NEWCOMERS move to Virginia Beach — or as a matter of almost before the moving van has left a friendly woman carrying a basket of civilities, and gifts of our civic-minded merchants.

This friendly custom reaches back into our early American history.

ONCE UPON A TIME — this nation of ours, having enjoyed freedom for nearly a quarter of a century, was beginning to feel her strength. Being a sturdy people and meeting each challenge that came to them with the fine courage and indomitable spirit that characterized their Pilgrim Fathers they determined to push back the western frontier and avail themselves of the opportunity offered them to "Homestead" in the vast wilderness that now stretched before them beyond the Mississippi.

Wagon Trains were organized for the long and arduous journey West. As these intrepid bands of pioneers would come upon fertile valleys, they would stop, clear the land and build their homes.

Life was not easy for these early ancestors of ours, and more than anything else they needed PEOPLE and MORE PEOPLE to till the soil and build their towns.

THEN—from over the mountains the cry of GOLD swept the nation. Once again headed West in a great wave—this time seeking FAME AND FORTUNE in California. Many of the homesteaders forsook their farms to join the Wagon Trains to the Gold Coast. To those left in the settlements this meant a loss of precious manpower and constituted a real threat to the growth of our nation.

In 1928 a young newspaper man from Tennessee, Mr. Thos. W. Briggs, of the GOLDEN WEST—about how the homesteaders used to send out "Welcome Wagons" to new settlers—saw the true nature of friendliness gave the middle West its first real impetus toward becoming settled. So fascinated him that he decided to bring the idea of HOSPITALITY up to date — "People their own city — what a wonderful thing it would be for a city to make them feel at home." So the 20th century version of WELCOME WAGON was born, the first modern town—in 1928.

TODAY in over 800 friendly and far-flung cities and towns across the nation and the community—but now is sponsored by civic minded merchants, instead of homesteaders, but also to BRIDES and MOTHERS OF NEW BABES as well. Each day over 3,000 hostesses set forth, basket in hand, bearing gifts too numerous to list. Only those who have ever found themselves alone in a strange community can appreciate the value of this custom.

In Virginia Beach there are two Hostesses making calls daily. If you know of any one who has not been called on, you will be doing them and your community a great favor. —Mrs. Lena S. Clair, Phone 2598, or the Assistant Hostess, Mrs. Nash Conkling.

to any of 800 other communities in the United States or Canada, will ring the doorbell bringing greetings of Our City and civic organization—

Now as these Wagon Trains from the East trudged their weary way across the barren country, they used to send out scouts on horseback to blaze the trail—warning them of impending danger such as hostile bands of Indians, or impassable stretches of country. Ofttimes they would run across these settlements of homesteaders and tell them of the approaching Wagon Trains from the East.

One farsighted homesteader, being a friendly person, conceived the idea of sending a wagon loaded with food and supplies out to meet an oncoming band of pioneers and welcome them to their community. To the exhausted travelers this welcome often meant more than the distant GOLD they sought in California, and they remained in the little community that had so sincerely greeted them. This custom spread from town to town and it was through the warm fellowship and hospitality of these first "WELCOME WAGONS" that many of our cities throughout the middle West (now known as the breadbasket of the nation) grew and prospered.

TIME MARCHES ON!!

... a couple of oldtimers from Texas reminiscing about the Wagon Trains from the East and how this simple gesture of warmth and friendliness on the part of our ancestors always moving to other cities or to other communities in acquaint them with their new surroundings."

... this neighborly custom is being preserved. It still serves to extend greetings, not only to NEWCOMERS to the community...

... as well as helpful information about city, school and church activities how much a friendly WELCOME WAGON visit means.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM CREEDS HIGH

The TRUTH ABOUT MOTHERS

By Mark Orlinger and George Orlinger, III

Let's face it! We, the children, are guilty—as charged—of being ungrateful and inconsiderate. Mothers are glad to give us punishment and we take all their love, their work and their countless sacrifices for granted. Mothers don't ask for gifts on some special day like Mother's Day, they would much prefer to have us be the boy and girl we should be every day. Quite a while back I saw a book with a title something like "Psychology of Secondary Education," and I suppose it had been one of my mother's school books, but psychology did not change her tastes which follow the old-fashioned in do-dads around the house, she also adheres to the Biblical statement "The first speweth the rod spoileth the child." All my corporal punishment has been delivered by mother and she doesn't mind—not one bit—of resorting to discipline if we are in the wrong; on the other hand, she is just as quick to go to bed for us if we are wronged. Through all our whims, stages, illnesses and heartaches, mothers somehow manage to retain a sense of humor—how, we will never know.

—but it's a good thing for us they can laugh once in a while. Just don't try taxing that humor too often, because you are sure to be taken down a peg or two. My Mom is probably a lot like yours. She will pile a tray high with sandwiches and drinks and bring it up to your room to watch a TV program, but will condemn in beyond my vocabulary to describe if we enjoy the treats sloppily, which we usually do. What makes us tick like

Creeds Students Win Six Ribbons At Science Fair

The science students of Creeds High School entered eight exhibits in the Science Fair which was held in the Oceana High School gymnasium April 24 and 25.

Peggy Walters, blue; Rachel Har-disson, red; Arleigh Waterman, yellow.

Biological Science: Group, 10-12 grades—

Morris Vaughan and George Orlinger, III, blue.

Students See Safety Film

A most instructive safety film was shown to the Creeds High School students on May 1, sponsored by the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company.

An excellent lesson was portrayed. The pupils benefited greatly from the drivers' test that was given.

Betty Salmons, Juliet Etheridge, Creeds students; Miss Bailey, teacher, and Patrolman Smith, were drivers of the car during the tests.

One thing certainly was apparent to all—You cannot stop on a dime!

that, anyway? Pat Peaves! Mother has 'em, too! Slam a door and we will be grabbed instantly and led back to come in and go out correctly. Bring in mud and dirt—throw our books on the floor, "forget" to hang up our clothes, and mother frowns and fusses, but starts sweeping up and picking up, fuming as she works. We know it is cruel and we ought to take stock of ourselves on this Mother's Day and begin a different way of life, by cooperating and helping, or doesn't it ever occur to us that we have but one mother?

Don't try to deceive mothers. It can't be done. Mothers like autos, come with extras, and you have to take all or nothing. One of their accessories is—they are psychic. They can tell you what's going to happen before it happens. They can read

Also on this day the winner of the Baby Contest will be announced.

Grass Silage Good Feed Says Ozlin

Reduce harvest and storage losses, particularly when the weather is unfavorable for haying, by making silage from part of the hay crop.

This advice is relayed to Princess Anne County farmers by County Agent H. W. Ozlin, and is the result of studies made at VPI. The best grass silage will come from the crop that makes the best hay, it is said.

Alfalfa, clover, grass and legume mixtures, and excess pasture are in the group suitable for silage. Grass or legume silage is higher in protein, calcium, and carotene than corn or sorghum silage. The high protein content means you can reduce the protein in grain mixtures fed the stock getting the grass silage, thus reducing feed costs.

One of the requirements is a good, tight, strong silo. If your silo is not well reinforced, put extra bands on the lower part to strengthen the walls.

the year, it would furnish about 12 tons of silage.

Colony Restaurant Compared With Those In New York City

"The atmosphere here is excellent and the food better, if that is possible. The Midwest (Illinois) could not equal this culinary delight." So wrote Mr. John A. Pearson, of Elburn, Illinois, after dining at the Colony Restaurant on Atlantic Avenue.

A comment received from Mrs. Frances Gelsky, of Forest Hills, New York read: "Food is very good—just like the best restaurants in New York."

The Colony Restaurant is very proud of the many letters from satisfied customers from all over the country.

Be sure to top off the silage with at least two feet of heavy green material. Turn the top layer thoroughly, especially around the walls. For five to seven days after filling, turn silage daily, for at least 10 minutes, keeping it tightly packed against the wall.

A water-seal silo gasket is available on the market, Mr. Ozlin said, and has much the same effect on a silo as a top does on a glass jar. It prevents any spoilage, and can be used on any circular silo.

Details on harvesting, storing, and preserving silage are available at the County Agent's office.

Summer Season Poses Traffic Threat To Children, Declares Sgt. Struncius

According to Sergeant Struncius, contest representative for the National Pedestrian Protection Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association and affiliated motor clubs, 1,420 children 1 to 15 years of age were killed in pedestrian accidents in 1951 and 50,000 children were injured. Forty per cent of these children were injured or killed during the three vacation months of June, July and August. Child accidents normally increase 50 per cent during the month of May with warm weather allowing the children more time outdoors for play.

This means that the parents have a very serious responsibility, during this period of the year to make additional effort to protect their children. Struncius, the A.A.A. contest representative, warned today, as school patrols, crossing guards, and other protection for school children are not available during the summer months.

The most serious increase in child accidents was to children playing in the streets — there was a 27 per cent increase in fatal accidents and 3,700 more children were injured playing in the streets in 1951 than in 1950.

The most dangerous hours — when children are struck down by cars — are the hours of 5 to 8 p. m. With the above thoughts in mind the A. A. A. Pedestrian Contest representative offered the following suggestions to aid parents in protecting their children:

Parents Should Make Safe Walking Habit Their Habit

You should, whenever you cross the street, stop at the curb and look both ways, keeping in mind that while you walk 12 feet from the curb a car travels 132 feet at 30 miles per hour.

Help your child to realize how much space there must be between him and an approaching car before he can safely cross. Teach him to wait for cars to pass and to wait for a break in traffic.

Cross at intersections, as that is where the motorist expects you — but watch carefully for turning cars.

Never step into the street from between parked cars and your child should be advised never to run into the street as either of these acts are very dangerous.

Parents must realize too that darkness brings reduced visibility and that extreme care must be taken at night in crossing a street, then pass these rules on to your children.

The A. A. A. Pedestrian official urged "more careful driving when children are in the vicinity. Further that parents should not send children on errands at night or at any time across heavily traveled streets or highways — until they are old enough to study traffic for a safe crossing.

For toddlers, parents should provide back yard play yards or play areas with swings and other play equipment and these should be fenced in if possible. Remember the happiness and safety of your child depends on you as traffic is dangerous for pedestrians unless they use care."

Ocean View Park Adds Fine Exhibit

With the return of "Old Sol," people are again thinking about Outdoor Entertainment.

Ocean View Amusement Park is proud of its new addition of Walter Stoffel's Wild Life Exhibit which is now installed on the premises for the entire 1952 season. It provides an educational treat for the old as well as the young. It has an array of animals ranging from a small hamster to a full-fledged baboon. The most unusual animal on display in this exhibit is a diminutive animal which is a cross of a deer and a Brahman cow. This animal alone is worthy of a separate exhibit, but it forms but one of the fifty cages being shown.

Admittance is free, but the exhibit depends on contributions for its support.

U.S. Erosion Board To Make Firsthand Study

WILL VISIT BEACH
LATE THIS MONTH

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission, at its meeting Tuesday afternoon, laid plans for entertaining the United States Erosion Board on May 26 and ordered danger signs placed around the area of land to be dredged in the Rudee Inlet area.

It was announced by E. H. Church, commission chairman, that seventeen members of the United States Erosion Board would arrive in Virginia Beach on May 26 from Washington, D. C. Church explained that the visit is being made as an inspection of the Virginia Beach project so that members of the board may get a first hand knowledge of the Virginia Beach work.

The day following their visit to Virginia Beach the United States Erosion Board will meet in Atlantic City and the application for federal financial aid on the Virginia Beach project is included on the meeting's agenda. The visit to Virginia Beach is intended to clear the way for favorable action by the federal agency in requesting Congress to appropriate funds for erosion work here.

The commission ordered its consulting engineers, the Myron A. Sturgeon Company, to erect danger warning signs on the erosion property which is presently being prepared for the arrival of the dredge. It was pointed out that in excavation work it is dangerous for the public to loiter around the work site. The signs will be placed at 150-foot intervals. The public is requested not to violate these signs.

An indication was made that the Norfolk Dredging Company dredge will probably arrive at the Lake Rudee site on or about May 26, the same date the Erosion Board members will be in Virginia Beach.

The commission is planning a luncheon at the Cavalier Hotel for the Erosion Board members, after which the group will be conducted on an inspection tour of the damaged waterfront and the dredging site.

At the present time the channel at Rudee Inlet is being opened and the commission property in that area excavated to make a firm bottom for the dredge which will work its way into the inlet.

After the luncheon, Mr. Hoover was escorted to his hotel by a group of Civitan Club members.

The field will cover 18 holes on Friday and Saturday and 36 holes on Sunday. Play is scheduled for Sunday. Indications are that the size of the field for this year's event will surpass all previous meetings, according to Les Larson, pro at the Cavalier Country Club.

PRAYER FOR ARMED FORCES DAY

"We humbly beseech Thy blessing, Heavenly Father, upon the arms of our nation on land, on sea and in the air, as we man the ramparts of the free world in defense of home, country and Thy rightful place in the human soul.

"Grant that our arms may serve the ends of Thy justice upon earth. So guide the leaders of our Nation and Armed Forces, as to insure that our might will ever be tempered with brotherly love, never besmirched with the taint of tyranny.

"Let us forget our departed comrades-in-arms, from whose fallen hands we have taken up the sacred cause of freedom's right, we implore Thee, Merciful God, to grant unto them that peace and glory which is Thine alone to give. We consecrate unto Thee upon our altars the debt of our national gratitude which is their due. Keep sacred their sacrifice in our hearts. Keep holy our cause in Thy sight.

"Grant that our cause may ever be such as to merit acceptance by Thee as Thine own. Enkindle within us a flame of selfless, unwavering devotion to duty that we may never be found wanting in those qualities of spirit and mind which alone can preserve earth and home, the peace of our nation and the world.

"We beg this blessing of Thy Providential Love as we face the great, grim task which lies ahead. Amen."

Corn Hybrids Show Promise

Five Virginia Department of Agriculture men turned out to plant a field of corn last week, and if the manure was a little high, so were the stakes.

A two-acre field near Richmond is the Department's hybrid corn seed testing plot. When harvest comes there ought to be different hybrids growing there.

Trouble will come if there are more or less than the 33. That will mean some seedman's hybrid wasn't what the label said it was.

Farmers select their hybrids carefully. Maybe one farmer wants a late maturing variety to catch a certain market or to get other crops out of the way first.

Another may want to catch an early market, to seed a cover crop or wheat behind the corn, or get the corn in before peanut picking time. Others may want to hog down their corn and try to fit the harvest into their feeding schedule.

That doesn't have to happen very often before farmers use confidence in hybrids—even though they resist drought and disease and give much larger yields.

Beach Girl Scout Camp To Open

Democracy and good citizenship is the theme of the Girl Scouts annual day camp at Virginia Beach this summer. The camp, Camp Linkhorn, opens July 7 and will continue until July 31.

Registrations for the camp will have to be made before May 30 to insure the children a place at the camp. Registration blanks have been issued to all Girl Scouts and Brownies in the Princess Anne District. Camp Linkhorn is able to accommodate over fifty girls this year. This is the largest group that has ever been able to attend the camp. Many new recreation facilities have been added to entertain the children.

Cooking is one of the favorite crafts that the girls learn to master during their days at camp. They also take part in folk dances, music and nature study. The overall plan of the camp is to teach the girls to be self-sufficient in the out-of-doors.

The principal aim of the camp is to teach Girl Scouts and Brownies of the Tidewater area to associate and cooperate with each other and to get along with girls their own age.

Do you enjoy the company of an amusing and interesting little house cat? Would you like an exceptionally nice one for your very own? She is eight months old, not a kitten, but as "cute" as any of them.

She is a beautifully striped tiger cat, in good health, very sweet disposition, and intelligent. She needs someone to let her know she is welcome in this old world. She is well worth any effort to make her happy. She repays—as all cats do—with her own jovial and friendly ways and winsome demonstrations of her appreciation.

This information is furnished by Miss Gloria Kessler of 209 Arete Crescent, Telephone 954. Miss Kessler will appear, with the cat, on the television program "Animal Fair" at 12:30 o'clock next Saturday. She is interested in seeking a good home for the "lovable" "tiger."

Registrations will begin Thursday evening, May 22. Tour of the Middleburg station is scheduled for Friday, May 23, and the annual banquet will be held that night. The short course will close at noon Saturday.

Johnson Warns Against Use of Unsafe Vehicles

It is still against the law to drive an unsafe automobile in Virginia Beach. Motorists who bring such cars on the streets can face heavy fines and possibly have their cars removed from the road, Chief of Police Reeves E. Johnson announced today.

Chief Johnson announced the usual enforcement of Virginia's vehicle maintenance laws in support of the May traffic safety program of the Police Department and the Governor's Highway Safety Committee. Efforts during May are directed toward promoting motor vehicle care as an important means of reducing traffic accidents.

"All traffic officers," Chief Johnson said, "are especially alert for obviously unsafe autos — those with poor brakes, cracked or obscured windshields, and improper lights, and will issue tickets to offenders, even rule unsafe cars from the highway if necessary."

Drivers of such automobiles who are involved in accidents may even be charged with reckless driving, he said.

Questioned on the necessity of stricter enforcement, Chief Johnson pointed out that unsafe autos — cars with mechanical defects of one kind or another — were involved in 11 per cent of the fatal traffic accidents in 1950. In some states, he advised, the percentage was even higher. However, in Virginia, this percentage was held to 7.8 per cent which he believes is largely due to the state's program of required inspections.

"It's not a matter that can be taken lightly," the police official emphasized. Inspection has shown that one out of every three cars checked had some obvious and hazardous condition."

Chief Johnson urged every motorist in Virginia Beach to make an immediate check of brakes, lights, steering mechanism and tires, the most dangerous feature of an automobile if allowed to degenerate into poor condition. At the same time, windshield wipers, muffler, window glass, horn, rear and stop lights and rear view mirror should receive close scrutiny.

The modern motel is located on Laskin Road bordering the number ten hole of the Cavalier golf course. It consists of twenty units which include five suites equipped with kitchen facilities.

Beth de Bordenave is the resident manager of Golf Ranch. She formerly served as assistant manager at The Marshall's in Virginia Beach. John Smith and George Guy of Virginia Beach, are the developers and owners of Golf Ranch, which is patterned very much on the order of motels found in Florida.

Ranch-type construction has been utilized in the Golf Ranch with new type off-set block, which gives the appearance of clapboard.

The new motel is painted chocolate brown with white trim and a white roof, a popular Florida color combination. A feature of the facility is selective heat in each unit, or air conditioning with selective music or radio programs. Off-street parking with immediate access to room is another feature of the Golf Ranch.

Kempville High Defeated by Creeds

The Kempville High School nine was beaten by Creeds 10-8 at the Kempville High School stadium Friday night, May 2nd, at 8 o'clock.

Halstead led Creeds with five hits, one of which was a home run. He got his home run in the sixth inning with two on, and it drove in the winning runs.

Miller, Cornell and Cromwell led Kempville in the batting department. Miller and Cornell collected two hits each and Cromwell slammed a triple.

Spivey pitched for Kempville and allowed ten runs on five hits. He walked three.

Salmons pitched for Creeds and gave up eight runs, five hits, and walked three.

Jackson caught for Kempville. Whitehurst caught for Creeds. Kempville committed 11 errors and Creeds 4.

The game was a seven-inning affair.

Published by the Sun-News Company, Inc., 101 North Atlantic Ave., Virginia Beach, Va.
 Entered as Second-Class Matter, May 13, 1932, at Post Office at Virginia Beach, Va., under No. 101.
 Accepted for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Act of October 3, 1917, authorized on May 13, 1932.

A PROGRESSIVE STEP

On May 27 the voters of Princess Anne County will voice their approval or disapproval to the question of issuing bonds to the amount of $2,800,000 for school needs.

The bond issue, if approved, would enable the county school system to construct and equip a modern consolidated high school near Thalia. In addition, it would furnish sufficient funds to complete the training school at Euclid.

The specific question being asked the voter reads: "Shall the County School Board of Princess Anne County, Virginia, issue bonds payable out of the funds of the County of Princess Anne for a sum not in excess of $2,800,000, for construction of a new central high school, site, furniture and fixtures, to serve the needs of the white high school pupils of the county, and for the completion of the central high school at Euclid, furniture and fixtures, to serve the needs of the negro high school pupils of the county?"

It seems that the proposal of a consolidated high school is a sound one and from the success of consolidated schools in other sections of the United States it would be logical to conclude that the good citizens of Princess Anne would be taking a very forward and progressive step in approving the forthcoming bond issue. We heartily endorse the proposal and wish for its success on May 27.

PLAIN FACTS

When City Treasurer Richard A. Jones this week replied to a letter written by John H. Bell, anti-organization aspirant for the city council, the financial figures he revealed of the city's operation gave a clear indication of the economy-mindedness of those administering Virginia Beach's affairs.

In fact, we can draw a sharp contrast in the figures with those of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, which the same Mr. Bell heads as president, particularly in administrative expenses. The first contrast can be drawn from the respective budgets of the city government and the Chamber of Commerce. The former's budget is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 while the latter operates on an annual budget of somewhat less than $40,000. Hardly any comparison since the figures are so far apart.

Yet, the two agencies can be compared for contrast when it is noted, as it is in Jones' letter, that the city's salaries are modest, to say the least, in terms of its budget. The City of Virginia Beach with a $1,000,000 business pays its administrative head and top paid official an annual salary of $7,000, plus $1,000 for expenses.

A look at the Chamber of Commerce figures reveals that its administrative head receives an annual salary of $6,000 with a $1,000 expense account. And, the Chamber's budget is less than $40,000.

We are not critical of the Chamber of Commerce operation although it does furnish food for thought, but rather, we are reminded that the taxpayer's money is in sound financial hands—which is the type administration all of us, as citizens and taxpayers, expect. We are fortunate to have such an administration at Virginia Beach.

THE GRASS-ROOTS EDITOR WINS

We didn't know before that the august United Nations organization was concerned about such things, but it has just issued a report of world use of newspaper that would seem to indicate that the people of the American grass-roots are the world's best read, so far as newspapers are concerned.

U. S. as a whole used 60 per cent of the world's newspaper in 1930, but was only seventh among the nations in circulation coverage. It seems our papers are so much bigger, which means the metropolitan papers are so full of supplements, comic sections and special "promotions," that we use more than our share. Most significant is the fact that we distribute nationally only 357 newspapers per 1,000 people, while England sells 399, Australia 455, Luxembourg 441, Sweden 416, Norway 415 and Denmark 414.

But, out in the country, away from the big cities, our small town editors make the national average look silly. In plenty of American towns and counties, circulation of real, locally edited and printed newspapers (not the pamphlets they consider as newspapers abroad) exceeds even the British figure.

HELP FOR THE WHOOPING CRANE

An oil company and a natural gas company recently were awarded the Audubon Society's citation of merit—and back of that highly unusual event lies quite a story.

The whooping crane is now almost extinct. Only 32 of these gigantic birds are known to exist and they are extremely timid. Their winter sanctuary lies in an area leased by the oil and gas concerns. Company officials pledged that they would do everything possible to avoid frightening the birds.

A few months ago drilling crews moved in to sink a test well. Then they discovered that a mother whooper was hatching an egg in the vicinity. So all activity stopped and the men spent their time bird watching until nature took over and the crane departed to summer in the far north.

The well was sunk, and proved to be an extremely fine producer. Other wells were drilled, and plans were made to build a canal, road, dock and other facilities to move the oil from the field to refineries. Then the engineers found that the proposed route would run smack through the cranes' winter sanctuary. So orders went out to abandon the original plan, and to lay out a route which will skirt the area and leave the cranes untroubled.

No one knows whether the whooping cranes will survive, or whether they are destined to go the way of the dodo and the passenger pigeon. In any event, a couple of supposedly hard-boiled American business concerns have gone all out to help them survive.

THE ANNUAL SCOURGE

DALE CARNEGIE

LEARN TO MASTER YOUR MIND

Everywhere he looked at one time R. Alan Pierce, Bronx, N. Y., saw fields in bold black print the symptoms of cancer. It was in every type of printed form, in the newspapers, magazines, on the movie screens. It wasn't very long before he began to feel some of these symptoms. As the days went by the nagging fears became frightful worries; every printed word on the malignant disease seemed to be aimed right at him. He was the one person out of every 10 that had cancer!

All of his daytime hours and his nights became consumed with that one horrible thought. He couldn't think of anything else but the symptoms he was feeling that so obviously indicated cancer. He experienced the truth of the saying "there is no disease as real as an imaginary disease."

It reached a point where even his wife noticed his behavior, and it must have been pretty bad for her to notice it, because he tried desperately to keep it from her. He explained his feeling and his wife, he says, being highly intelligent, suggested the obvious course: to go to a reliable doctor and get a complete examination. Well, with just a few words that doctor ripped away all the fears and worries and nagging doubts that were making his life so miserable. All the doctor said after the examination was, "there is nothing wrong with you." Presto! He was suddenly one completely rejuvenated human being.

Here is the thought he wants to leave with you: The mind is a wonderful thing as your servant and it can perform miracles; but if you let it, it can make your life a veritable hell on earth. Master your mind or it will master you.

ACROSS the DESK

The small community of Waterloo, Neb., has a problem—a serious problem which has been mentioned casually by a number of weekly newspapers in other sections of the country. George Woodward, Jr., editor of the Douglas County Gazette, has written a strong editorial about the problem. Here it is:

"... 'tis Sunday, and with the birds and the bees, and buds of the trees, the crazy, moronic, hot-rod drivers have burst into full bloom. The stretch of lines on dry pavement, the continual blare of horns, the revved up motors, heralded the event long before the first robin—even before the first blade of grass was even thing of turning green. 'Parents in the neighborhood dash to windows in alarm as noise of two-wheel corner turns through the house, hoping to find their little ones safe and sound—hoping that the hot-rod remained in the street instead of crashing into the play pen or sand box—hoping for Sunday to end without a fatality, but dreading the noonday recess and after-school games of car tag, bumper-to-bumper games and short-distance races that are to come on the morrow."

"What a hell of a way to live in communities of our own choosing. Perhaps putting up with this sort of nonsense goes with the many nice things that go with living in a small town, and this dangerous living isn't confined to any particular town or community—this thing is present in every one of our small towns in rural Douglas County."

"Please, in heaven's name, before one of your children or one of my children shall become a victim of our own negligence or of our own cowardice, please, let's try and stop it."

"How? I don't know. Perhaps by becoming a community of stool picons, by filing individual complaints against individual offenders, we can at least make a start. Or, joint complaints might be filed by a group of citizens and given to the law enforcing agency in our village."

"But, whatever we do, let's start it before it's too late... it must be done now!"

The Editor's Mail Box

Dear Editor:

"One man, Harry Flood Byrd," says the hybrid Kentuckian, Francis Pickens Miller, "has ruled Virginia for nearly a generation," and through this rule, Mr. Miller contends, Virginia is decaying from dryrot. If anybody is sincere enough to believe that statement, he wants proof to the contrary, all he or she, will have to do is to ride to Albemarle County and see Mr. Miller's establishment.

Mr. Miller says that the Byrd system has denied the electorate the right to vote. Without going into that labyrinth, I want to return Virginia that when I attacked the poll tax system, which took me six years through the Federal courts, and finally into the Supreme Court of the United States, during all that time not one word was heard from the Kentuckian. He never appeared in the courtroom, he never wrote a letter, he never contributed one penny to the cause.

Mr. Miller reminds me, in that connection, of what Henri Beaudard said when he sat down to write the life of Robespierre, who had been his boyhood friend, playmate, and schoolmate, and was asked the question why Robespierre lost his head under the guillotine at the hands of the very people he sought to liberate, and Beaudard's answer was, "In short, they doubted his sincerity."

Mr. Miller has charged isolationism to Harry Byrd, and being indifferent to the fate of Western Europe, and he has listed four things that Byrd voted against: The British loan, the Greek-Turkish Bill, Foreign Military Assistance, and the Economic Aid Bill; also the Marshall Plan. Taking them one by one, even the foolish know now that the Marshall Plan took the taxpayers' money and were killed in traffic accidents.

JOHN LOCKE GREEN, Arlington.

LEAST VICTORIAN FIGURE OF HIS AGE

Various crafts that owe debts to his genius have lately been observing the hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Morris, perhaps the outstanding figure in the esthetic history of the Victorian age.

It is not meant by this that he embodied the prevailing ideas that we have come to regard as Victorian. A rebel always, Morris never approached anything except with a zeal to make it over. His long activity as a socialist seems to have proceeded from a feeling that the world needed remaking, rather than from any close attachment to the suffering masses. As a poet, a reformer, a designer and finally as a printer, he was the least Victorian figure of his age.

Ninety-seven per cent of drivers involved in 1931 auto accidents had at least one year of experience behind the wheel.

THE FIFTY FIVE

The Society of the Fifty-Five and the Fifty-Five Society of its monthly program last night upstairs over the Barber shop had a plan which was not only a success, but a triumph. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success.

The Great Magnum waved a diamond scepter in front of Judge's nose and executed a quivering eye. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success. Judge Adams presided and the program was a success.

Magnum grew desperate and plucked the diamond scepter into the seat of justice. Judge changed his key but not his tune. Magnum was arrested by Constable Starr Balfour for illegal exertion of influence upon the court.

This morning at Magnum's trial, Judge Crocker presiding, Defense Lawyer Craft Wiley pulled a fast one and asked, "What is your decision, your honor, guilty or penitentiary?" "Penitentiary" sang the Judge.

That hypocrite left town mighty quick. To bring the Judge back to himself, Doc Shakeshell took him out to the stockyards and put him in a pen with some Shropshires, hoping he would think he was judging hogs at the county fair and remember who he was. But he thought he was judging the beauty contest and kissed one of the prettier pigs. That brought him around.

gave it to England, who in turn thanked the capitalist system of America by turning Socialist. As for the Marshall Plan, I might say, to enlighten Mr. Miller, that I wrote General Marshall at one time for a copy of his plan. In the future I got back a steno-typed letter advising me that the plan would be mailed under separate cover. It came, and it consisted of about 15 or 16 pamphlets and books dedicated to the proposition of how to give the taxpayers' money away. And lest we forget, it might be mentioned in passing that General Marshall himself testified that he himself had not read the plan. The plan, as everybody in Washington knows, was nothing more or less than to give money away to foreign countries.

Before this campaign is over, it is going to be suggested to Mr. Miller from a great many quarters, other than myself, that he is not going to be able to answer that advertisement which appeared in the Richmond News Leader when it is taken apart, item for item.

JOHN LOCKE GREEN, Arlington.

Twenty-five per cent of all drivers involved in fatal automobile accidents in the United States last year were under 25 years old.

Last year, 37,100 Americans were killed in traffic accidents.

LADINO HAS REPLACEMENT VALUE FOR CONCENTRATES
 Ladino clover has a definite replacement value for concentrates and will provide the protein requirements for weaning pigs.

This is indicated by tests at the Holland branch of VPI Agricultural Experiment Station. The researchers found that an acre of ladino clover making good growth produced the equivalent of something like 400 pounds of protein supplement during the period from early May to the first of September.

The tests also indicated that Tidewater farmers would not profit by diverting crop land to lespedeza for swine pasture—a question in that area for several years. Data show that the pigs fed a complete ration in dry lot can be expected to make gains equal to or better than pigs fed similarly on lespedeza pasture.

Highway Body
 Allocates Funds For Roads and Bridges

The State Highway Commission this week announced approval of primary highway allocations totaling $23,624,530 for road and bridge construction throughout the State.

Changes were made in the tentative allocations of only three districts following the public hearings of May 5 in Roanoke and May 6 in Richmond. Five districts had no money.

Since the total amount of money set aside for primary construction remains the same as tentatively allocated in late March by the Highway Commission, there were no additional funds available. Only minor shifts were made to take care of other needed work.

The earliest state editorial association was organized in Wisconsin in 1853.

There were 162,800 more persons injured in U. S. motor vehicle accidents last year than in 1950.

There were 1,600 more persons killed in U. S. motor vehicle accidents last year than in 1950.

Observer Corps Drill Saturday

On next Saturday, the nation's defense will be bolstered by more than 100,000 civilians—many of them from our own community.

When the volunteer members of the Ground Observer Corps in 17 states, including Virginia, start working around the clock, seven days a week, the South Princess Anne area will take over a full-time job in the intricate defense network of our nation.

From this station, 74 will participate in "Operation Skywatch," the code name for the continuing observer duty.

CROCKETT ELECTED LIFE MEMBERSHIP BY C. OF C.

W. F. Crockett, well known Virginia Beach civic leader and operator of the Beach and Bryne theatres, has been elected to lifetime honorary membership in the Virginia Beach Chapter of Calaveras.

Crockett's election was unanimous at the recent annual dinner meeting of the Chapter. He is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Their mission: Scanning the skies to detect all aircraft coming within their assigned area of operation—aircraft which could conceivably be enemy bombers armed with atom bombs.

Their responsibility: Working in the air defense—as no other civilians are working—to protect every man, woman and child in our nation from sneak air attack.

Many of the local volunteers will be taking over critical duties in the Richmond filter center. Others will be carrying on a constant vigil at the nearby observation post. Together, regardless of where they work, they will become an integral and indispensable part of the air defense team.

Virginia Beach Moose Lodge Sponsors Bike Safety Campaign

To reduce night-time accidents involving bicycles and to make bike-riding youngsters visible at night, the members of the Virginia Beach Moose Lodge No. 1682 will apply reflective "Scotch-lite" sheeting strips free on all bicycles brought to the Playground at 20th and Pacific avenue, Virginia Beach, Virginia, between 9 and 12 a. m., Saturday, May 24. Supplies are on hand for five hundred bikes.

This safety campaign is sponsored by the Virginia Beach Lodge of the Local Order of the Moose whose Governor is M. P. Carrison. The project chairman is R. W. Stacy. The service is offered free to all bicycle owners of the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne County area.

Red strips of "Scotch-lite" sheeting safety strips will be applied to the rear fender and silver strips for the front fork and handlebars. The strips reflect auto headlights brilliantly at night, due to their coating of 20,000 microscopic glass spheres on a reflective plastic film.

Governor Battle To Make Awards Friday

Gov. John S. Battle will award the grand prizes again this year to winners of the Fifth Annual Wildlife Essay Contest on May 16, according to officials of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, co-sponsors with the Virginia Division of Isaak Walton League in the contest.

Commission officials are still hard at work with the final judging of essays to determine which lucky boys and girls will be among the 50 prize winners and which of these will be the top eight who will come to Richmond as grand prize winners.

In addition to the cash awards, 240 certificates of merit will be given out for outstanding essays. A day of enjoyment is being planned for the grand prize winners by commission personnel. Following a tour of the capitol, winners will be presented to Governor Battle and will receive their awards from him. This will be followed by a guided bus tour of the city before the scheduled luncheon at the Hotel Raleigh.

The I. W. L. A. has, for the sixth straight year, joined with the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries in sponsoring the wildlife essay contest. Both organizations donate $200 each year, which is used to make up the $7 money-prizes issued to contest winners.

WTAR To Salute Virginia Beach

BASS SEASON TO OPEN SOON

The next six or a week's time will bring the opening of the season on every type of fish in Virginia. I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, reports.

With opening of the trout season May the first, fishermen found full, overflowing streams confronting them which insured the fishing. High waters caused by a s-x-dry rain fall, may have discouraged the fish from biting, but not the fishermen from fishing. They turned out by the thousands to christen open day.

The bass season will open east of the Blue Ridge June 1. West of the Blue Ridge June 20. By June 20 all public fishing waters of the state will be open to fishing.

Ever growing numbers of fishermen, including the women, are taking part in sport fishing in Virginia, Quinn said. "More women are taking their rightful places among the ranks of 'dyed in the wool' fishermen every year, with little complaint from the men, for the more women who fish, the fewer wife-batters the husbands have to employ when they take to the streams."

Record Number of Pure-bred Sires Seen

Record numbers of purebred sires were placed in Virginia counties last year under the "better sires" program.

George Herring, animal husbandman at VPI, says 2,823 meat animal sires were reported in 40 counties, as compared to 2,143 in 43 counties in 1950.

The 1951 total, was divided according to species as follows: beef bulls, 1,412; rams, 800; boars, 801. The program is being continued this year, Herring said.

Little Theatre To Meet Tuesday; To Elect Board

The season ticket holders of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre are requested to be present Tuesday night, May 20th, at eight o'clock at the Workshop of the Virginia Beach Community House for the election of new board members to fill a three-year term.

All the season ticket holders for the Little Theatre plays are eligible to vote on the ten board vacancies created by expiration of term.

The newly elected board members will elect the new officers for the 1952-1953 season.

Book on Virginia Fish To Be Published Soon

To meet a long time need, the commission has begun preparations for publication of a booklet on fresh water game fishes and fishing in Virginia, according to J. J. Shomon, chief of the commission's education division.

The publication will be of similar quality and treatment as the commission's latest publication, "Birdlife of Virginia," and will have four color plates of game fish, including a number of drawings and photographs on fishing and fish management. Work on the four-color cover has been promised by Walter Weber, one of the nation's leading wildlife artists.

Preparation and printing will probably take a year, but it is hoped that the book will be off the press early next spring. It will sell at 25 cents per copy.

Local Officialdom Will Be Heard Monday On Alice White Program

A salute to Virginia Beach will be heard by radio station WTAR listeners on May 19 of a program transcribed at the Virginia Beach Hospital by Mrs. Alice Dorothy White, fashion and women's director of the popular Norfolk station. The recorded broadcast was made on May 12, National Hospital Day.

Mayor F. F. Murray will be heard on the program along with civic club leaders of Virginia Beach. Mrs. White serves as moderator on the program.

Mrs. White, a veteran of radio and television, has been a member of the WTAR family since 1942 and her woman's world program heard daily from 9 to 10:30 a. m., has the largest listening audience of any woman's program in the Tidewater area.

Mrs. White recently received an award for her work in television from the Disabled American Veterans, Portsmouth Chapter No. 280. The energetic television star began her TV career on the day that WTAR-TV began telecasting on April 2, 1950. Since that time she has appeared continuously for 164 weeks and has interviewed more than 1,500 guests.

The Virginia Associated Press recently awarded Mrs. White's programs a superior rating in all phases of women's programs. This was the first contest in which Mrs. White's work had been entered.

In addition to the Virginia Beach program on May 19, Mrs. White interviewed many notable guests at the recent Princess Anne Garden Club show at the Cavalier Beach Club. This program was broadcast last Monday.

The convention headquarters was at the John Marshall hotel in Richmond and it was easily decorated with slogans of the aspirants for office.

Baseball Back at Oceana High

Oceana High School started their season April 8th with a victory over Norfolk Academy nine. This was the first baseball game Oceana has had scheduled for two years. Last season there was no baseball in Oceana's athletic schedule. Coach C. M. Tomko, who has been coach of Oceana's former baseball teams, had a problem this year building a team with only a few lettermen in baseball.

The schedule was as follows: Kempville, lost; Creeds, won; Mathew Whaley, lost; Franklin, won; Franklin, lost; Norfolk Academy, won; Creeds, lost; Kempville, won.

The players were: Byrd, Smith, Sutton, Cichin, Swindell, Brook, pitcher; Allen, third base; Gardner, second base; Gresham, shortstop; Farrar, Greenberg, Darden, Lowden, Harris, first base; Marshall, left field; Snow, center field; Hughes, Allen, right field.

After leading the game with Deep Creek for six innings, Oceana managed somehow to lose with a score of 18 to 16.

The lineup was as follows: Catcher, Jackie Dashiell; pitcher, Mary Bowden; first base, Nita

Citizens Eat Better On Inflated Dollar

What was the value of the dollar, you are eating better than you did 15 years ago for less money, the Virginia Department of Agriculture said this week.

To be sure, the same food items cost more than twice as many dollars, but then you have more than twice as many more dollars to spend, according to Department figures.

In 1951, the figures showed Americans spent $380 each for food. In 1935-39 they spent $118.60 each. But in 1951, they had $1,434 each of disposable income to spend—after taxes. In 1935-39, they only had $510.

In 1951, food took 26 cents out of every personal income dollar, but folks ate 13 per cent more food than they did in 1935-39.

The food you ate in 1951 would have cost 32 cents out of every personal income dollar in 1935-39, instead of 26 cents.

Turning it around, if you had eaten in 1951 just what you ate in 1935-39, it would have taken only 19 cents of the income dollar. In 1935-39, it took 23 cents.

'Big Baby Revue' Friday Night

An hilarious comedy of laughs, "The Big Baby Revue," will be presented at the Oceana High School Friday night at 8:15 o'clock. The comedy is sponsored by the Oceana Volunteer Fire Department.

The program will feature well known local men cast in the roles of comic strip characters, movie and stage personalities.

A night of fun and frolic is in store with such characters as Miss Fingertooth, played by Langley James, and Chicquita, the Mexican spitfire, portrayed by Houston Gimbert.

A partial list of others in the cast includes: John Stone, Nathan Thompson, Carole Beck, Jack Etheridge, Colon Brothers, Bill Jennings, Pat Goodwin and Al Marlowe.

The play is under the direction of Miss Lorraine Felt. Admission is 75c and 35c and tickets are available at the Oceana Restaurant and the box office at the school auditorium.

Technical Library A 'Must' For Modern Scientist

A sailor without a compass would have considerable difficulty finding his way around. A chemical researcher without a complete technical library is in much the same situation.

From the first day he undertakes a new problem until he turns in his final result, the researcher must consult all sorts of literature, from current scientific magazines to chemical journals of years gone by.

The scientific library maintained by Nutrilite Research Laboratories in Buena Park, California, is typical of the many throughout the world.

During a regular working day at Nutrilite, the librarian separates the magazines, periodicals and trade publications which cross her desk, and attaches a list of names on the covers of each. These publications are routed to scientists and technicians in each department whose work is connected with the type of material in the magazine.

Chemical, pharmaceutical and biological publications are not the only literature available to the scientists, however, as periods of relaxation can be spent with lighter reading such as Life, Saturday Evening Post and other popular selections.

Originally there were four months between presidential elections and the inauguration to allow for slow methods of communications and transportation.

Engagement Of Miss Lois M. Sessions Set

Mrs. Harry A. Sessions, of Cavalier Park, Virginia Beach, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lois M. Sessions, to James Tredway Spratley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnett I. Spratley, of Hopewell.

The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Harry A. Sessions, of Rochester, N. Y., and a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clifford I. Millard, of Norfolk. She is a graduate of Mt. Vernon Seminary, Washington, and was graduated last June from Connecticut College for Women, New London, Conn. She was presented to society in 1949 at a ball given by the Norfolk German Club, and is a provisional member of the Junior League of Norfolk.

Mr. Spratley was graduated from Georgia Institute of Technology and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, during World War II he served as a first lieutenant in the Air Force.

The wedding will take place on July 26.

Miss Patricia Atwill To Wed Cpl. Schwartz

Mrs. Gordon Atwill, of Virginia Beach, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Patricia Gordon Atwill, to Cpl. William Wright Schwartz, USA, son of Mrs. Francis Schwartz, of Williamsburg.

The wedding will take place June 14.

Miss Atwill is a graduate of Westhampton College, and sang for two years in the "Common Glory" Choir.

Corporal Schwartz is a graduate of the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity. He is stationed at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., where he is assigned as a chemist.

Chemical Analysis Very Complicated

The chemist for years has attempted to dispel in the mind of the average person the mistaken idea that through the use of a test tube or two and a few drops of one or more mysterious fluids he can find out the chemical composition of any product.

Chemical analysis is a long and involved procedure. It requires patience, experience, knowledge, and a wide variety of equipment. It requires hours of tedious work. Certainly the procedure is more involved than a few test tubes and several drops of liquid.

The spectrophotograph, a complex and sensitive instrument, has been developed which greatly aids the chemist in the exacting job of analysis of unknown substances. With this ingenious instrument a trained chemist can learn exactly what element or elements and how much of each is present in any particular product, whether solid or liquid.

A small amount of the unknown material is placed in a chamber of the instrument and by means of an electric arc it is burned or exploded. The spectrophotograph by means of a prism

2,700 Employees To Be Dropped By Va Says Report

Virginia Administration announced that approximately 2,700 administrative employees will be dropped from its payroll by May 31, 1952, to get down to the 12,000 contained in the budget for fiscal year 1953, as submitted to the Congress.

The amount requested to the Congress for fiscal year 1953 was less than that appropriated for fiscal year 1952 because of expenditures that workloads in certain programs, such as GI Bill education and training, would not be as great.

The reduction will be nationwide — approximately 2,500 in field offices and about 200 in the VA central office in Washington, D. C. Included from the cut are employees of the Department of Medicine and Surgery who staff VA's 154 hospitals.

Separation notices have been issued with the actual separation becoming effective May 31, 1952. The reduction in force will be carried out in accordance with the U. S. Civil Service Commission retention preference regulations.

Although the number of jobs affected by the cut is 2,700, it is anticipated that the number of persons who actually will be separated by May 31 should be somewhat less because of normal attrition between now and the final separation date.

At the peak of its employment in February, 1947, VA had 236,131 persons on the payroll. As of March 31, 1952, the latest date for which complete figures are available, the payroll was down to 176,817 persons, including the 128,491 in the Department of Medicine and Surgery who are not affected by the current reduction in force.

Virginia Chamber Deplores Federal 'Reaching Out'

A constant reaching out by Uncle Sam into more and more fields of public activity was given today by the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce as a principal reason for the rapid increase in the Federal Government's payroll.

As an illustration, the Virginia State Chamber said:

"Twenty years ago when the Government in Washington was composed of some 450 departments, bureaus and other units, it had a total of 563,900 civilian employees. But the most recent official count shows there are now more than 2,000 governmental units and as late as February 28 there were 2,531,000 Federal civilian workers on the payroll. New Federal jobs are being filled at the rate of more than 400 a day."

In Virginia alone the latest Civil Service figures show 78,040 Federal employees, the State Chamber of Commerce said.

The Virginia State Chamber explained that every new spending program passed by Congress calls for the creation of a new Federal agency to administer it, once created, an agency tends to grow. The State Chamber of Commerce cited the State Department's foreign information program set up in 1946, which had 2,857 employees in its first year of operation. Today it has 7,889 employees and it has requested funds to employ 11,250 next year.

The Virginia State Chamber of Commerce continued, "In his budget message in January the President asked Congress to approve numerous new spending programs. Each would require a new batch of employees. One of them, the proposed $300,000,000 Federal school aid program would, if adopted, eventually require as many as 3,000 employees to conduct it, according to a competent witness before Congress."

The best way to reduce Uncle Sam's huge civilian payroll, the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce suggested, is to follow the advice of Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer and eliminate things which the Government does."

Junior Class Will Honor Seniors

Friday, May 10th, is an important and well-looked-forward-to date at Kempsville High School this year. Why all the excitement? The annual Junior-Senior Prom, of course!

As is the custom at Kempsville High, the Junior Class treats their senior classmates to an elaborate dinner and dance affair each year. Naturally, each Junior Class tries to outdo the one of the year before and so the prom is always a huge success.

Ref to be left out of this "annual event of the year," 4-H members of the Kempsville Senior Club contribute much to the planning, decorating, and effective carrying out of the Prom, and 70 of the Kempsville Senior 4-H members will attend.

The theme of the Prom of 1952 is "Apple Blossom Time." Decorations have been carefully selected in order that the color scheme, down to the smallest detail, will correspond perfectly with and add to this effective plan.

During this week, the school gym will be transformed into an enchanting fairyland country garden of pale pink and green, equaling the finest of night club settings. No, they haven't forgotten the dreary weather. Billy Morris and his orchestra have been on-

Who was it?
 You're down in the cellar, or out in the yard, when the telephone rings. You rush to answer it... only to find that the person who called has already hung up. And you think, "If he had only held on..." Which is exactly the point. Always give the party you're calling time to get to the telephone. It saves him trouble, saves you from having to call again. And, of course, it works just as well the other way. Answer as promptly as you can... to avoid missing important calls.

Telephones down on the farm
 During the earliest years of telephone service, money and know-how were lacking to get service to rural areas. Also many farmers of the 80's and 90's looked on the telephone as a luxury. In spite of this, the Bell System began furnishing a special exchange system for small villages as early as 1884.

Since World War II, the Bell System has been adding rural telephones at the rate of about 1,600 every working day. Today, more than half the farms in the U. S. enjoy telephone service.

May is a good month to—
 Tidy up the farmstead before the rush of spring work gets too heavy... Take something with you to sell whenever you go to town... Plant a corn hybrid adapted to your locality (plant seed one inch deep, plant thick, and use lots of fertilizer)... Get clothes ready for the graduation exercises... Put supers on the beehives... Screen the windows... Enjoy nature's wonderful springtime... Dehorn and castrate beef calves... Start another war on household pests and flies on cattle... Shear sheep and tie fleeces with paper twine... Plant some more things in the garden... Make roof repairs... Help the children plan their 4-H Club projects... Check your canning and freezing supplies.

Swirls Underhill—Orchid, net, fuschia, strapless, lavender orchid.

The figure will lead through an arch and form in the center the petals of an apple blossom. All guests will then join in and begin dancing.

Chief attraction on the entertainment program will be a floor show given by the Eva May Morris School of Dancing. Eva May Morris, in previous years, has put on such excellent performances that both the Junior and Senior classes feel that the prom would not be complete without her and her talented pupils.

Also on the entertainment program are many talented 4-H Club members of the Junior and Senior classes, who will entertain the group with Mrs. Edith Barlow as their accompanist. The Sophomore Class 4-H Club members are lending a helping hand by serving the dinner, which will be prepared by Miss Loe Allen, cafeteria manager.

Junior Class officers of 1952 are: Eugene Rawls, president; Aubrey Menden, vice-president; Jo Ann Thompson, secretary; Paul Vestal, treasurer; sponsors, Mrs. Louise Lee and Mrs. Julia Sawyer. Class colors are yellow and white. Class flower is the yellow rose. Class motto is "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Class song is "Turn Back the Hands of Time."

On Saturday morning, May 17th, a committee of 4-H members are scheduled to tidy up the gymnasium and put it in readiness for a 4-H square and round dance to be held there that night. The same decorations will be used as for the Prom.

4-H Club to Have Active Week-End

4-H members with their sponsor, Mrs. Louise Lee, and leader, Mrs. R. F. Humphries, will attend a luncheon on Saturday at 12:30 o'clock on board the Alverca Carrier USS Salpan. The ship will be tied up at the Hampton Roads port of embarkation, and lunch will be served on the larger deck. On that day the army base will be open for the day and there will be a special display of equipment.

Saturday night in the Kempsville High School gymnasium, an old-fashioned 4-H square dance and round dance will be held, complete with an expert caller. Mr. W. W. Bure, extension specialist on Older Youth Work, will make a special trip from Blacksburg in order to attend and conduct in the dance. He will also address the group on the subject of forming a Rural Youth Club in Prince Anne County. Dance will last from 8 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

Sunday, May 10th, is Rogation Sunday, or Rural Life Sunday, and is observed by 4-H clubs throughout the nation. Services of the Kempsville Senior 4-H Club are to be held at Old Dominion Episcopal Church (Lynchaven Parish) by the Rev. A. Webster Horvath, missionary to Andover County, North Carolina. Special recognition is to be given to all parents of 4-H club members. Members are urged to bring their smiles. It is hoped that there will be 100 per cent attendance at the service on this year.

HINTS GIVEN ON REMOVAL OF MUD

When Mr. Mitchell tracks home mud, don't despair. Cleaning up after him isn't such a bad job if you follow the right rules. Let mud dry—don't try to rub it off or you rub it in. If, as in this case, a backspread is involved, determine first if it is washable. If not, take it to the cleaners immediately.

If it is washable, here are the rules to follow, according to Winifred S. Carter of Procter & Gamble's Household Information Service. Shake spread to remove lint and loose dirt. Fill the washing machine as you would for a full load. Use warm water for colored or quilted spreads, hot for white. Make plenty of rich suds with a good all-purpose soap. Wash one large spread or two small ones at a time. Don't overload the washer. Place them loosely in the machine to permit plenty of motion. Wash only five to eight minutes, then rinse in warm water.

Put spreads through the wringer at low pressure to help avoid wrinkles. Shake out and hang over a line—two parallel lines are better. Smooth out seams, squares the corners and hems. Dry colored spreads out of direct sunlight. Pick a breezy day if possible.

Candlewick, chenille or corduroy spreads do not need ironing, so let them dry thoroughly on the line. A quilted spread may be placed on the bed when still slightly damp.

Importance of Water Stressed

The importance of water in agriculture is a subject frequently overlooked or minimized by most agriculturists. However, water has a greater importance to life than any food. In fact, it is second only to oxygen in importance.

Life can go on for weeks without food but at the most only a few days without water. When a person fasts, 100 per cent of body fat is lost and approximately one half of the protein before death occurs, but loss of only 10 per cent of the body's water results in serious physiological damage. Twenty per cent loss results in death.

Why is water so important to living things? As early as 1855 Claude Bernard, the great French biologist and physiologist said, "All living things live in water." Each cell in the body not only is filled with fluid but is surrounded by fluid. Each cell acquires its food by absorbing it through the cell wall from the surrounding fluid. It returns to the fluid the waste products it produces during its growth. If sufficient water is not provided, the concentration of foodstuffs in the fluid changes. Absorption of the food through the cell walls in exchange for waste products then becomes impossible, and the cell dies. Consider that every cell in the body is dependent on this process for life and the true import of water can be seen.

Food Plants For Wildlife Distributed

Commission game technicians and game wardens, in close cooperation with the Soil Conservation District personnel, farmers, landowners, and sportsmen, will put out more wildlife food plants and seed this year than ever before in Virginia's history, according to E. T. Chalm, executive director of the commission.

Quinn stated that an approximate 2,000,000 bicolor lespedeza plants and 40,000 pounds of wildlife food mixture seed will be distributed this year.

The requirement for water is often increased in domestic animals by reason of increased waste through increased kidney, bowel, and sweat activity, and often times hemorrhage. Lactating women require more water in general to make up the loss through milk.

The body does not store water even though excess quantities are consumed. Since this is true, it becomes necessary to assure a daily intake equal to the normal day's losses.

VA to Discontinue Sending Receipts

Forward property carrying vehicles registered in Virginia which have been in the hands of the Government since 1942 to 1945, in 1951, with the running time in total accidents in which such vehicles have been involved, will be one of the basic factors guiding the speakers scheduled for the Commercial Vehicle Section of the Virginia State-Wide Safety Conference to be held here July 15-17, it was announced by Victor B. Fitzpatrick, executive chairman of the conference.

"When we add to this problem," Fitzpatrick commented, "that the volume of rural highway travel of all commercial vehicles has risen 142.86 per cent between March, 1941, and March of this year, the panel discussions in this section of the conference, with respect to future highway safety, will be of major interest not only to those in this specialized field but to the conference in general."

Notice concerning the discontinuance of U. S. Government Life Insurance and of National Service Life Insurance—the two groups affected.

VA said a preliminary estimate of the savings likely to accrue to the government as a whole from this order is approximately $1,000,000 annually.

Many private insurance companies already have discontinued the sending of receipts, VA said. The VA action follows this trend.

Policyholders who wish to maintain a record of their premium payments are advised by VA to make payments by check or postal money order and to keep cancelled checks or postal money order stubs as evidence of such payments.

VA said it will continue to maintain the official record of premium payments for the protection of their policyholders.

Grime on Walls Comes from Cooking

In the preparation of ordinary meals for four people for a year more than 403 pounds of fat, moisture and grime are given off. This is more than a pound a day to be deposited on walls, furnishings, and clothing.

These figures come from the U. S. testing laboratory, which measured the amount of "greasy gum" given off while cooking.

Such facts emphasize the importance of careful planning for kitchen improvements. New kitchen plans should include a fan or some system for drawing as much of the moisture as possible from the kitchen.

Virginia Dairies Bring Farmers Large '51 Income

Virginia dairy farms in 1951 produced 1,975,000,000 pounds of milk which brought farmers a gross income of $87,263,000, the State Department of Agriculture reported.

The 1951 production was just a shade under 1950, reversing a steady upward trend over the last several years.

Gross income, however, was up. Wholesale prices had advanced and farmers were selling more milk at high fluid prices and less at low manufactured prices. They were also using less milk on the farm.

These trends apparently are continuing this year. For the first quarter of 1952, milk production was 2 per cent under the same period last year.

But in March, fluid milk prices hit the highest point on record, fluid milk wholesale was up 8 per cent and milk sold for manufacture was down 2 per cent.

The Department's Division of Statistics also found a trend toward larger and more efficient dairy farms. The three and four-cow farmer is not finding his operation profitable, the figures showed.

Virginia's milk supply, however, has been running ahead of population increases. From 1940 to 1950, the state's population increased 24 per cent while milk production went up 31 per cent.

Croakers Found In Fresh Water of Rivers

Fishermen are well aware that young croakers frequent the waters of Chesapeake Bay. It is not so well known that very small croakers, down to an inch or less in length, move up the estuaries even into fresh water.

Surveys by Dexter Haven of the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory are showing that the York River may be an important nursery ground for these young fish.

By towing a small, fine-meshed trawl at regular intervals throughout the year, Haven has learned many facts concerning the early life of this important commercial fish.

In November, young fish spawned in 1951 were found in the lower York River. Throughout the winter, numerous young from one to three inches long were found in the vicinity of York Spit. By February 1952 the catches had begun to decrease, and by early March very few fish were found, even in the deeper water near True Marsh Light.

Toward the end of March, many small croakers were found upriver from Pages Rock to Bell Rock. These fish ranged from three-quarters of an inch to three inches in length. No croakers were present between York Spit and Gloucester Point at this time.

In early April, young were found in the Mattaponi and Pamunkey Rivers, and down the York to Allmondsville. As early in the year, the smallest croakers were taken farthest up the rivers.

When cool weather comes in the fall, the water vapor rising from these spots condenses in the cooler surface grain, causing it to rot, mold, or sprout. This condition calls for a U. S. grade of "sample," which means the grain is no longer fit for food products and must be sold at livestock feed prices. This means a loss of from 50 to 80 cents a bushel.

Clean, dry grain, stored in clean, sprayed bins, which have been rendered rodent proof, is an essential step toward combating this insect problem, said to be costing grain operators of the nation an estimated $600,000,000 annually.

In all, the American Cancer Society has financed 1,461 grants-in-aid, 193 institutional research projects and 366 fellowships in the past six years.

In announcing the award to Dr. Clayton, Dr. Jones said, "We are gratified at these grants. Projects such as this are steps well along on the trail toward a solution to the cancer problem. Results of research upon which to formulate a new hypothesis about cancer's cause are now coming into focus. It appears that the influence of hormones, of genes, of carcinogens and even of viruses, all may be factors in producing cancer."

"The new thinking," Dr. Jones added, "is that a combination of several factors working together is necessary to produce cancer. Disruption of a single factor, however, may be enough to stop the development of malignant growth. The search is being pressed to find the single, weakest point in the complex mechanism of cancer causation."

Before painting metal roofs that are beginning to rust, remove the rust with a wire brush, and paint the spots with a rust-inhibitive paint such as red lead or metallic zinc paint. You will have to spend more time preparing the surfaces for painting if you delay the job. New galvanized sheet iron is easier to paint if allowed to weather for about a year; however, the galvanized surface can be prepared for immediate painting by scrubbing it with a strong solution of bluestone and all ammonia in water.

Apply at least one primer coat of paint on all exposed woodwork of new buildings as soon after construction as weather permits. It is usually more economical to use the best grades of paint even though the first cost may seem high.

Whitewash can be used to advantage on fences and in poultry houses. Directions are available from the Agricultural Extension Service at VPI, Blacksburg, on mixing and applying whitewash. These may be obtained on request.

Agriculture Dept. Suggests Spray For Weevil Pest

A pair of weevils, breeding at a normal rate and living in the ideal conditions offered by a full grain bin, could produce 152,894,295,300 offspring in a six-month period, if each generation completed its reproductive cycle. While Nature never allows such a fantastic build-up of population, insect damage commonly lowers the value of stored grain by from 50 to 80 cents per bushel—a loss of from $500 to $800 for every 1,000 bushels stored by the grain grower or elevator operator.

The use of insect-killing sprays on the walls of all wooden grain bins before any grain is stored is an important initial step in preventing this serious loss. The development of new organic insecticides has meant that these insects can be kept under control for a long period of time following one low-cost application. As an example, methoxychlor insecticides, recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because of their combined effectiveness and freedom from toxic hazard, cost only 36 cents for sufficient material to spray the walls of a 1,000-bushel bin.

Fourteen species of damaging insects are found in stored grain, according to the Department of Agriculture. Of these, three species—saw-toothed grain beetles, flat grain beetles, and cadellids—account for more than 75 per cent of the total population.

Insects are present in granaries most of the time and unless bins are thoroughly cleaned out and sprayed, can migrate into the grain when it is put in storage. Chief contributor to this situation is the cadelle, a beetle which bores into the wooden structures of granaries, leaving tunnels and burrows in which other insects can take refuge.

Under provisions of the U. S. grain standards in wheat, grain is called "weevily" if a 1,000-gram sample (about 2.2 pounds) contains two or more live weevils, five or more live bran beetles, or one live weevil and three or more bran beetles.

The mere presence of insects in large numbers may cause even more serious damage. Heat and moisture created by their body processes develop hot, moist spots in the grain.

Excess Peanut Law Repealed

Congress has just repealed the law permitting growers to market "excess" peanuts at all prices, the Production and Marketing Administration announced.

For the past two years growers have been permitted to deliver such "excess" peanuts to certain agencies designated by the Commodity Credit Corporation, and were paid at the existing oil rates. However, the amendment to the law permitting such disposition of excess peanuts was repealed by Congress this year, and the revised law becomes applicable on the 1937 crop, C. D. Jordan, PMA State chairman, said.

Under the 1935 and 1931 programs, CCC was allowed to sell these so-called "excess oil peanuts" on the edible market when a shortage of edible peanuts was declared by the Secretary of Agriculture. Profits from such transactions on the 1935 crop reverted to the growers who delivered the excess peanuts, Jordan explained. Under that plan CCC acquired 11,242,406 pounds of extra 1935-crop peanuts from 6,658 Virginia growers. These same growers received over $600,000 from CCC's 1936 crop resale profits. No figures on the 1931 deliveries under that plan are available yet, although the 1931 plan does not permit growers to share CCC re-sale profits.

Earlier this year the PMA announced that the 1932 peanut acreage allotment for Virginia is 120,698 acres, which is about 17 per cent less than the 146,389 acres permitted under the marketing quota program last year.

Individual farm peanut acreage allotments for 1932 are now in growers' hands. Producers who plant within allotments are guaranteed price support on this year's crop at a base national rate of $239.40 a ton, $9 higher than last year's support average. Growers who exceed their allotments may market their peanuts only by paying a penalty equal to

New Freight Rates Will Have Little Effect on Prices

New York.—Increased railroad freight rates which went into effect on May 2 will cost American consumers little more than $1 for each $1,000 worth of consumer products which they purchase, according to a detailed study made by rate experts for leading eastern railroads.

This increase was established for the eastern railroads on the basis of actual freight rates in carload lots between important points of origin for manufactured goods and typical distribution and sales centers.

A score of industrial products and foods were incorporated in the survey, with the explanation that while there might be slight variations as between individual railroads, they would be so small as not to change the over-all picture.

In basic foods covered by the study, it was found that a five-pound beef roast sent from Chicago to New York City as part of a carload lot, and which would retail for approximately $4.45 would pay an increased freight charge of one-half a cent, from 7.8 cents to 8.3 cents.

A 95-cent pound of coffee shipped from Baltimore to Chicago now pays .04 of a cent additional freight or a total of three-fourths of one cent, while the twelve-pound turkey shipped eastward from Chicago to New York City, and selling for $9.48 would pay four-fifths of a cent more freight, for a total of 14 1/2 cents.

The minute size of the increase when applied to consumer purchases was reflected even more graphically in actual figures of cost on some heavier manufactured goods.

A $390 refrigerator manufactured in Dayton and delivered in New York City today will cost 35 cents more in freight than it did yesterday, or $6.72 instead of $6.37.

A $625 console television receiver, manufactured in Chicago and delivered in Washington, D. C., now pays 29 cents more in freight than it did under the old rate of $5.21.

The same holds true for a long list of other goods hauled by the

Corn Planting Time Nears for Virginians

It's almost corn planting time in Virginia again, and Extension agronomists at VPI this week had these suggestions for high yields:

Use an adapted hybrid. Your county agent can advise you. Plant thick. For a full-season hybrid, plant at the rate of 14,000 to 16,000 kernels per acre. For an early variety, plant at the rate of 16,000 to 20,000 kernels.

Use plenty of fertilizer. Apply 600 to 900 pounds per acre of a complete fertilizer, such as 4-16-8, 5-10-10, or 2-12-12. Use 200 to 300 pounds per acre in the row. Broadcast the rest on the land and either plow, disk, or harrow it in before planting.

If a soil test has shown low levels of phosphorus and potash in the soil, the amount of fertilizer applied should be around the upper limit of the fertilizer recommended. If soil test was high or medium, the amount of fertilizer used may be less.

On the heavier soils in Piedmont, and on soils west of the Blue Ridge, additional nitrogen can be applied just before planting with the other fertilizer, rather than waiting to apply it as sidedressing.

WRIST PINCUSHION

A wrist pincushion is a handy item for the seamstress. All you need to make one are a dark-colored wool flannel piece of fabric 4 1/2 inches square, and enough dark 1/4-inch elastic to go around your wrist, your sewing box and thread to match fabric, and raw, clean wool for stuffing.

PLAN FAMILY FUN

Plan family fun. Take surprise refreshments to the men in the field. Start a family hobby. Allow even the youngest children to join. Plan a community play party where all types of games are taught. Sponsor a teen-age party with the teen-agers making the decisions as to refreshments, activities, and general plans.

Eastern railroads. Eastern railroad rate experts also pointed out that while freight charges collected by the railroads run into the billions of dollars annually, they are one of the smallest costs connected with production and distribution of consumer goods.

In many cases the normal freight charges between points of origin and of sale represent less than 1 per cent of the retail price paid by consumers, and it is rare for these to exceed 4 per cent.

Some perishables, of course, pay higher rates, but these are necessary because of the expensive care with which they have to be handled. But a vacuum cleaner sent from Rochester to New York City pays only .4 of 1 per cent of its retail price in freight charges. And a man's or woman's suit delivered from Rochester, N. Y., to Columbus, O., pays less than one-fifth of 1 per cent of its retail value for shipment.

Bovine 'Beauty' Contests Held

A beauty contest! Well—in a manner of speaking. Keith Huston, associate dairy husbandman at VPI, reports that 15 of the Jersey and Holstein bulls owned and used by Virginia dairymen have recently been "classified for type."

To effect this means that the dairy animal is compared as far as "looks" go to an ideal animal.

These bovine beauty contests are held on individual farms all over the country. The results of those held at the Virginia Artificial Breeding Association at Rocky Mount indicate that the Virginia dairymen using artificial insemination have available service of some outstanding bulls at a very low cost, Huston says.

For example, Dunlopston Adwood, a Holstein, and two Jersey bulls, Records Eminent Nobleman and Louisford Jester Basil, have been classified "excellent." Less than three per cent of all the animals of those two breeds have been classified "excellent" in the whole United States. Seven more bulls have been classified "very good." Less than a third of the animals classified are rated this high.

All five Jersey bulls classified at Rocky Mount averaged 89 points out of a possible 100. The 10 Holstein bulls averaged 85 points. The national average for Holsteins is 81 points.

The program is sponsored by the various purebred dairy cattle clubs. Huston says it has been shown by research and practical experience that the appearance of an animal is indicative of production.

Wholesale Milk Sales Increase

From 1944 through 1946 Virginia registered an increase in the amount of whole milk sold, with the largest increase of 43.09 per cent in central Virginia, an analysis of the agricultural census of 1940 shows.

Southside and southwestern counties had increases of 37.09 per cent and 37.33 per cent respectively in that period. Twenty-one counties sold less whole milk in 1949 than in 1944.

The analysis noted that whole milk is the most important dairy product sold from Virginia farms, accounting for 91 per cent of the income from dairy products, half of the whole milk sold in Virginia during 1949 came from counties in the northern and southwestern areas of the state.

The number of farms selling whole milk throughout the state increased 14.02 per cent from 1944 through 1949. Individually not many more than half of the counties had an increase, however. The Tidewater area had a decrease of 43.47 per cent, and the northern area showed a slight decrease of 1.87 per cent.

About one-half of the farms selling whole milk were located in southwestern Virginia counties, but they sold much less per farm than in any of the other areas.

Income from dairy products represented 14.93 per cent of Virginia's total farm income. Some counties received 35 per cent or more of their total farm income from dairy products. The northern, central, western, and southwestern areas received nearly 30 per cent of their farm income from dairy products.

Shad Spawning Grounds Surveyed By Biologists

This spring biologists from the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory, Gloucester Point, are conducting a survey of the spawning areas of shad and rock (striped bass) on the James River. The survey is confirming what many shad fishermen know, that most shad spawning takes place between Washington Point and Popovent. Rock spawners in the vicinity of James River Island. This information was released by William H. Massmann, biologist in charge of shad and rock investigations.

Massmann has conducted similar surveys in previous years to determine the more important spawning areas for these fishes in the Rappahannock, Mattaponi, Pamunkey, and Chickahominy Rivers.

"The large runs of shad may re-

Too Many Changes Being Attempted

The weakness of reformers is that they go in for too many different reforms at one time.

A man has sent me a letter in which he proposes a scheme to stabilize the purchasing power of money. Whatever merit his plan may have is lost on me because his letter is written in the queer spelling adopted by those people who believe that words should be spelled as they are pronounced. Philosophy, for example, is spelled "filosophy." This irritates me so that I am unable to give his letter serious consideration.

I also dislike all variations from conventional dress. I dislike men who go about bareheaded, or in shirts open at the throat. Gandhi may have been one of the greatest men, but his costume made him seem queer.

Most people can tolerate only one new idea at a time. If I had a cause to espouse, I would close my mind to every other radical notion. I would dress myself like a conservative banker and conduct myself like a God-fearing deacon. I wouldn't let anybody dismiss my cause by saying that I also believed in free love, nudism or nude bathing.

BLOOD DRIVE!

"Remember Me, Mac?"

"I was on the front pages about six months ago.

"No, you didn't see my name, because it wasn't there. The story was about my outfit and some trouble we ran into on a mountain in Korea.

"Well, I'm not on the front page any more. My front-line fighting is over. I'm strictly a hospital case. But they tell me my biggest battle is still ahead ... the battle for my life."

Quietly, doggedly, the painstaking job of rebuilding broken bodies goes on ... in hospitals abroad and at home, wounded fighting men will need your blood as desperately as when they first fell on some foreign field. Yet, because the war news may be off the front page, blood donations dwindle disastrously ... become a thin trickle, imperil the life line of thousands of your men.

Remember this about the war news: tomorrow may bring its new Iron Triangle, its new flare-up in Korea. So the need is twofold ... it is for the men who have already fallen and for the men who will be injured in future combat. Please help them. Give your blood. Give it today.

OPS Seeks Injunctions Against Potato Price Violators

The Office of Price Stabilization reveals nine more injunctions sought against potato dealers for alleged over-calling prices, bringing to 47 the total of such cases already filed by the Department of Justice for OPS on a nationwide basis. These figures include all such enforcement actions by the price agency against the belief that potato price violators during the week of May 10, the latest date for which complete figures are available.

OPS has discovered some of the devices employed during World War II to evade potato price regulation. For instance, say price officials, a restaurant owner in Roanoke, Virginia, bought a sack of potatoes and dumped them into his peeling and slicing machine. The peeling placed in the sack with the potatoes practically reduced the equipment. Also, there have been numbers of instances in which dealers have sold seed potatoes as table stock, charging over-calling prices in the belief that seed stock was not under control. This, reports OPS, is not the case, since now there are ceilings on all white potatoes at the retail level.

Price Agency Makes It Profitable to Sell Potatoes To the Armed Forces

OPS reports steps have been taken to make it just as profitable to sell potatoes to the Armed Forces as to other classes of buyers. The price agency says it has taken the handlers and distributors to add all distribution mark-ups not already taken by a previous handler or distributor in determining ceiling prices for sales of potatoes to the military.

Mr. MacCulling says

LOOK FOR THE OPS CEILING PRICES WHEN YOU VISIT THE TELEVISION REPAIR SHOP

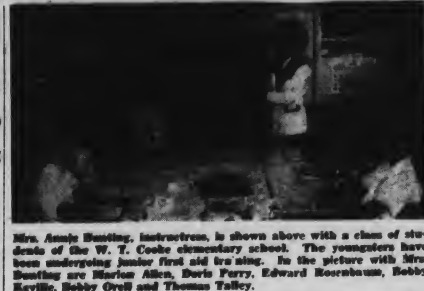

This means, explains OPS, that if a country shipper sells potatoes direct to the Armed Forces, his ceiling prices for such sales will be the country shipper's f. o. b. ceiling, plus the full 86 cents per hundred pounds distributive markups for handlers between the country shipper and the retailer.

OPS Approves Six Additional Flat-Rate Manuals for Automotive Repairs

The Office of Price Stabilization announces it has approved six additional flat-rate manuals to be used by suppliers of automotive repair services in determining their ceiling prices.

The manuals are: Henry J. Models 513, 514; GMC Service Manual, Truck and Coach; Chrysler's Motor Age New Car Manual; Ford, Passenger Car Suggested Time Schedule; Motor's Flat Rate and Parts Manual; and

Lynnhaven Work To Get Underway

Possible revival of the Lynnhaven waterway improvement program was indicated the past week after an enforced halt in the program due to the Korean outbreak.

The Lynnhaven Waterways Improvement Association, which has been working quietly since the program has been delayed, indicated in a letter to its membership last week that it felt confident that it would meet all stipulations in order to receive a favorable report from the Army Engineers.

In the letter, sent out by Benjamin Burroughs, co-chairman of the project, it was stated that the main obstacle in the railroad trestle, owned by the Norfolk Southern Railway and the company's inability to abandon it, along with the rail line serving Fort Story.

It was felt that the State Highway Department would, at the proper time, make necessary alterations to the bridge, which, to meet specifications of the engineers, would have to have a draw opening of 80 feet.

Up to the present time the Army Engineers have already spent $175,000 in preliminary studies and surveys which were completed in recent years, and are now awaiting word on what arrangements have been made for the required non-Federal contributions to the project.

The association has high hopes that the project will resume its progress interrupted by the war in Korea.

As Virginia's 1951 traffic deaths were finally tabulated at an official 999—which is 84 more than in 1950—Col. C. W. Woodson, Jr., Superintendent of State Police and executive chairman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, announced that the counties of Middlesex, Northumberland and Craig and the incorporated cities of Bristol, Suffolk and Harrisonburg produced perfect records of no deaths.

Fifty counties showed death increases, 39 decreases and 11 saw the same number as in 1950. Largest number of fatalities occurred in Fairfax which showed 36. Norfolk was second with 35 and Princess Anne third with 26.

On a basis of deaths per 100 million miles of vehicular travel, King and Queen had the worst record with a rate of 62.2, which was the highest any county has had for five years. However, Colonel Woodson noted that one crash killed six people of the 14 who died. Middlesex is considered to have the best rate since it saw more traffic than any other county with a perfect record.

JONES GIVES BREAKDOWN OF TAX LEVY

A complete breakdown of receipts and disbursements of the city's special tax account from May 1, 1951, through April, 1952, was released this week by City Treasurer Richard A. Jones.

The special tax account as defined in the report includes the taxes on hotel rooms, cigarettes and amusements which went into effect a year ago. The taxes this year have been increased and broadened to include a tax on prepared foods.

According to the report a total of $115,288.79 was collected during the period and disbursements amounted to $102,883.23, leaving a balance on deposit in the bank of $12,385.56.

The report further reveals that disbursements covered the four projects for which the taxes were designed. Repairs to the seawall and groin control accounted for $42,164.69 and advertising by the Chamber of Commerce received $26,300.00. Funds to purchase the land for the convention hall accounted for $25,270.83 and the special garbage collection required an expenditure of $8,085.88.

The detailed report is broken down into expenditures per month and includes approximately $1,000 for taxes and stationary.

A complete tabulation of the special tax levy for 1951-52 will be found on page three.

"Buddy Poppies" First Made in '22 By Men of VFW

In announcing that the 1952 Buddy Poppy sale would be held Saturday, May 31, Commander Bill Nae of V. F. W. Post 7166 at Virginia Beach pointed out that the red poppies which each year are so heartily worn by patriotic Americans, have an interesting history.

The idea of selling poppies to the American public to support a national welfare program originated in 1922 with the Veterans of Foreign Wars. It was the veterans organization to promote a national poppy campaign.

"The idea took root," Commander Nae stated, "when Mrs. Quinn of France, inspired by the symbolic beauty of the poppies of Flanders, sought the cooperation of the V. F. W. in selling poppies made in France, to aid disabled and needy war veterans."

The idea has rested well with both the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American people.

In 1923, Gen. Frank T. Hines, Director of the United States Veterans Bureau, endorsed the plan. The Veterans of Foreign Wars established a workshop in Pittsburgh, Pa., which was staffed by disabled veterans. They made the poppies and were, themselves, the originators of the term "Buddy Poppy." They coined the name while they were working together, fashioning the poppies. The following year, the name was registered with the U. S. Patent Office.

The patent guarantees that all Buddy Poppies are genuine products made by disabled, needy war veterans. The patent, moreover, grants exclusive use of the term "Buddy Poppy" to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. No other organization, firm or individual may make legal use of the name "Buddy Poppy."

"After establishing the name," explained Commander Nae, "the V. F. W. authorized its various state departments to have displays of the poppies."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Princess Anne County can well be proud of its many fine women's clubs and their accomplishments, which add that certain extra something that places our county above the ordinary, we think.

The ladies are earnest workers and when they set about to do something you can rest assured that it will be done and in a very efficient manner. They never shirk civic responsibility and all of us benefit from their unselfish spirit.

Praising our women's clubs is not merely local pride on our part for their accomplishments received due recognition last month at the annual state convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs held in Richmond.

Judged according to size in some instances, the Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club won two first places, one second, and one third place awards. The Chesapeake Beach Club won first place in the "Citizenship in Action" contest in competition with fifty-one clubs in the state.

The club's press book won first prize in its class and placed second in the entire state among all clubs. The Chesapeake Beach ladies captured second place in the "Build Freedom With Youth" contest and third place in the "Know Your Heritage" class.

The judges at the state convention paid high praise to the Chesapeake Beach Club for its citizenship work and classed it as a "basis for development of a growing citizenship responsibility in youth."

Not to be outdone by their neighboring club, the Junior Woman's Club of Princess Anne County carried off the most coveted award among the juniors in winning the Corrine Murray Public Welfare Award. This recognition was based primarily on the fine work being done by the club in operating its welfare bank at Virginia Beach.

We believe there's ample reason to be proud of our woman's clubs and we believe our readers will agree.

"HOT ON THE TRAIL"

Shades of the Rover Boys, and other gallant laddies of the now dim, dowdy and disillusioned past! Behold, we have with us a new incarnation—the Beebe Boys, and their latest adventure might well be entitled: "Hot on the Trail."

Here, in brief, is a "synopsis of preceding installments":

Seeking to bag big game, the Beebe Boys asked, as any citizen has a right to do, to look at the city's books with a view of ascertaining if there might exist something that would do for a target for their ammunition? They asked Dick Jones several questions having to do with city finances, and the general City Treasurer gave them the figures they wanted. Then:

Although they had not asked for information specifically concerning the special luxury taxes, they deduced that something was wrong with this special account, wrong to the extent of $38,689.00—which could be quite a wrong, at that!

Here was the issue, and in an apparent effort to put the City administration on the spot, the Beebe Boys, who are being grub-staked by the few surviving members of the old "People's Ticket," addressed the following letter to Mr. John Q. Public:

"In an effort to ascertain the answers to certain pertinent questions regarding the fiscal affairs of the City of Virginia Beach, we compiled a list of these questions and after enquiry, have received the following information from the City authorities:

"(1) Regarding the special luxury tax. We found that this tax produced $115,000.00 in the year 1951, and were informed that this sum was disbursed as follows:

"For erosion control during 1951	$21,211.00
To the Chamber of Commerce	26,300.00
For special garbage collection	8,800.00
Balance on hand according to the best available report	$20,000.00

	$76,311.00
Sum unaccounted for	38,689.00
	$115,000.00

"On behalf of the tax-payers of the City of Virginia Beach, we are interested in knowing what has become of the unaccounted for sum of $38,689.00. This money can only be lawfully used for the three items mentioned above or for the convention hall; which four items were the sole projects for which this luxury tax was intended."

A complete breakdown of the special luxury tax levy will be found on the facing page. And with a quick perusal of these figures, the Beebe Boys may put up their guns, and get a good night's sleep.

We cannot but admire the Beebe Boys, as our fathers did the Rover Boys of a by-gone day, for they were indeed "Hot on the Trail," but, alack and alas, there was no game!

"It brings a fellow up with a start to find on his desk, fresh from the morning mail, the familiar, yellow-backed 'Old Farmers Almanac,' with the intricate, old-timey etching of the four seasons and the picture of Benjamin Franklin. It has been unable to withstand the temptation to comment on the thorny road we moderns are taking, to wit . . . concurrently, in our pursuit of happiness, we are also finding the more power and money we grant in our Federal and State and city and town governments to carry out our wishes in these regulatory respects for the benefit of all of us, the nearer we approach confiscatory taxation and socialism." How true that last, 'Old Almanac'!—Isip, N. Y., Press.

Attention Ladies!

Cakes lined up—each with a number. Judges looking, breaking off pieces, tasting. The winner? Number 4—a cake with a wonderful, glossy chocolate frosting.

This was at the Women's Club last night. Then Duke Thomas stepped up—his cake was Number 4! Seems his missus was laid up, so Duke took over—and won!

Here's Duke's prize-winning frosting recipe:

Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate in double boiler. Remove from heat, add 1/4 cups sifted confectioner's sugar and 2 1/2 tbs. hot water and blend. Add 3 egg yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Add

4 tbs. butter, beating thoroughly after each. Fill and frost 8-inch, 2-layer cake. From where I sit, we all have different abilities and tastes . . . and these differences are sometimes surprising. Duke bakes prize-winning cakes. My wife, for example, can beat most any man at checkers. Same when it comes to beverages—you may like coffee or tea while I prefer a refreshing glass of beer. But let's not have any "half-baked" ideas that people are all the same—or should be.

as they come!

Stack up what you get for what you pay . . . and join the nation's largest group of truck users by choosing Chevrolet

By far the biggest number of truck users today are Chevrolet owners . . . and for good hard-headed reasons. Because what they get is this:

Low Cost—in purchase price and in upkeep. A truck that gets the job done. A truck that's rugged, long lasting.

Take a look at the four facts below . . . and see why you, too, will be money ahead with a Chevrolet truck. Come in and see us about it!

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

FACT NO. 1

Save money on purchase price. Stack up a Chevrolet truck against any other truck with comparable specifications. You'll find the Chevrolet truck lists for less.

FACT NO. 2

Save money on operating costs. Hundreds of thousands of truck users have proved to their own satisfaction that Chevrolet costs the least of all to own and maintain.

FACT NO. 3

Save money on job efficiency. Chevrolet trucks are factory-matched to your payload requirements. You don't buy "too much or too little truck."

FACT NO. 4

Save money on low depreciation. Records show that Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more money at resale than any other make which costs about the same new.

During 1950, 3,250 people lost their lives in accidents involving horses and horse-drawn vehicles. Considering a horse usually was driven only about 500 miles a year and an automobile goes 10,000, the horse has a death rate nearly twice as high as the automobile.

Mrs. Richardson Opens in Newer, Finer Quarters

The opening of Marie Richardson's antique and interior decorating shop, now established on Larkin Road is significant of the measure of a woman's business in the five short years.

Starting as a small, second-floor of Coates Motor Company, five years ago, Marie Richardson soon found her facilities to be inadequate to meet the increasing orders from decorators throughout the eastern states.

Miss Joan Faw to Have Lead Role

Miss Joan E. Faw, daughter of Mrs. Grace H. Faw of 19th street and a third year drama student at the Richmond Professional Institute, has been selected to play the leading role of "Gretchen" in the school's forthcoming production of "The Hasty Heart" by John Patrick.

The play is the last of a series of four graduate productions, and will be staged by Mr. Warner Callahan of Petersburg, Virginia.

The tender story of the play centers around a young Scot, who enters an army hospital in Burma, ignorant of the fact that he is soon to die. There he meets a group of men who become the only friends the Scot has ever known. There, too, he meets and falls in love with his nurse, Sister Margaret, who is the "guardian angel" of the men in her ward. Essentially a comedy, "The Hasty Heart" warmly combines laughter and tears to provide an hilarious and poignant evening in the theatre.

Production dates are May 26th and 27th at 8:30 in the R. F. I. gymnasium playhouse.

THE BRIDE'S CAKE

The Bride of the Year baked her own wedding cake. She is now Mrs. Dorothy Rowland, 18-year-old 4-H club biscuit baking champion, who decided that no one else could do as well with the cake of her life. She told self-rising flour millers it was easy, and supplied the following recipe for cake and frosting:

WEDDING CAKE

3 1/2 cups sifted self-rising flour (13 cups, about 3 pounds)
3 1/2 cups sugar (9 cups or 4 1/2 pounds)
4 cup vegetable shortening (3 cups or 1 1/2 pounds)
1 1/2 cups sweet milk (1 1/2 quarts)
1/2 teaspoon vanilla (1 tablespoon)
1 teaspoon almond extract (1 tablespoon)

6 egg whites (4 cups), unbeaten (2 dozen)
Let milk and eggs stand at room temperature at least 2 hours before mixing.

Line bottom of pans smoothly with waxed paper.
Plan to make the above recipe four times. Amounts in parenthesis following ingredients indicate total amounts needed.

Make 2 layers of each size, 12 inch, 10 inch and 8 inch. (Better results are obtained than by baking one thick layer of each size.)
One recipe makes one 12-inch layer or one 8-inch and one 10-inch layer. (Place 1/2 of batter in the 8-inch pan, remaining 1/2 in the 10-inch pan.)

Mixing method:
Sift together the flour and sugar. Add shortening and a little over half of the milk mixed with the vanilla and the almond extract. Beat two minutes on medium speed of an electric mixer or 300 strokes by hand. Add remaining milk and the

GARDEN GAB

GROUNDCOVERS

In almost every garden there is the problem spot where it seems difficult to find the right plant material to fill in. This may be due to too much shade, poor soil conditions, steep slopes or a spot where tree and shrub roots are robbing the soil for annuals and perennials.

In each of these areas, you will find that there is a plant in the type of plants known as groundcovers which will cover the soil with a blanket of green preventing erosion and forming a much to keep the soil cool and neat in appearance.

The plants which are available are numerous but for the purposes of this article we will only discuss those which are suitable for the particular conditions of southern gardening. We have a variety of these versatile plants used both as cover between shrubs in foundation plantings and as cover between plants in the perennial and shrub border.

Among the best known and most satisfactory for many uses is the evergreen periwinkle, vinca minor. It is not particular as to soil conditions but will make the best showing in partial shade. It does fairly well even in full sun if kept moist during extreme dry weather. It will grow in the most difficult places and its single blue blossoms has been showing this winter since January, as our winter has not been severe enough to stop its growth. The long tendrils which shoot out from the plant with quick growth make it one of the quick covering types for effect in planting.

Bulbs, such as narcissus, may be planted under this cover and when their bloom is over the leaves may be tucked under the periwinkle for next appearance. We have a planting of

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, of New York, are spending several weeks at the Princess Anne Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodrich and two children, of Norfolk, spent last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. William C. Everett on 48th Street.

Mrs. Emmett Caldwell and Col. and Mrs. E. C. Waddill and Miss Ida Mae Esmond returned to their homes on Monday after spending several days at Blowing Rock, N. C.

Mrs. R. W. Robertson, of Norfolk, is visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Thompson, Jr., at their home on Pinewood for a week.

"British Soldiers" and periwinkle around a bird bath and the effect is most satisfactory.

For deep shade where 6 cover is needed, try Japanese Spurge. It is not a fast growing plant, so more plants will be needed to cover the space desired, but in texture and habit it is most effective. It has no bloom but can be cleaned along with the old faithful English ivy for satisfactory cover for extreme shade.

Begonia (spagn reptans) is next on our list of wonderful cover plants. For shade and partial shade it is one of the most attractive. Its blue white or bloom comes along about August. (Continued on page three)

Work and is best at this time with the hot flowering bulbs. It will not do well in full sun, but for other exposures try it. The plants put out new plants in spring in a manner similar to the strawberries, with less length to runners and a neat appearance of all stems. The blue upper bloom is only four to six inches and your neighbors will all want to know what it is. After the bloom is over the rosette shape of the leaves is lovely year round.

East but not least in importance in groundcover material, you will find the columbine, acre or stonecrop in particular, is one of the favorites for semi-shade. Beetle Injury Seen In Ladino Plantings

The green June beetle has become one of the most important pests in ladino-orchard grass pastures in Virginia, says Dr. J. O. Rowell, entomologist at V.P.I.

Dr. Rowell says the leaves which drop from the clover plants furnish excellent food for the beetle larvae, and that the serious advent of the

For meritorious service as the commanding officer of the USS Minnesota during operations in Korea from March 2 to 28, 1951, Captain George C. Wright, USN, has been awarded a Gold Star in lieu of the Second Bronze Star Medal.

The husband of Mrs. Estelle O. Wright of 106 80th Street, Virginia Beach, Va., Captain Wright is serving on duty as Chief of Staff and Aide to the Commander Cruiser Force, U. S. Atlantic Fleet.

Said the citation: "Captain Wright contributed materially to the success achieved by his ship as Flagship of Commander Seventh Fleet, while carrying out bombardment missions at Chosin, Namson, Chikaboo and Wonsan on the east coast of Korea, which resulted in the destruction of vital enemy military, industrial and transportation targets in those areas."

HOUSEHOLD ITEMS

Put eggs on your shopping list—they're plentiful and cheap.

Bob Krueger, poultry marketing specialist at VPI, says the retail price has been dropping for the past eight months. Last August large fresh grade A eggs sold for $3.12 a dozen. Today they are around 50¢—a drop of nearly one-third.

Generally, when a dozen eggs costs less than a pound of meat, they are a relatively good buy. With the present price of chuck roast at 70¢ a pound, pork chops at 76¢, and round steak at $1.10, eggs are an exceptionally good bargain.

Krueger points out that eggs are a good source of protein and iron. Two or three eggs furnish about the same amount of these nutrients as a serving of meat.

beetle in Virginia's pastures is closely associated with the growing popularity of ladino clover.

The beetle larvae do damage, not by eating on the plants, but by pushing the plants out of the ground as they work their way to the surface. The larvae or grubs of this beetle can be identified by the fact that they crawl on their backs.

Some tentative recommendations for control have resulted from research at the Holland branch of V. P. I. Experiment Station, and from field demonstrations. Dr. Rowell says farmers who see the insect in their ladino-orchard grass pastures, or in other permanent pastures, should contact their county agent, or write the Agricultural Extension Service at V.P.I., Blacksburg, for a free copy of Circular MS-90.

UNIQUE OPTICAL SERVICE OFFERED TO RESIDENTS OF VIRGINIA BEACH AND PRINCESS ANNE COUNTY

The Salasky Optical Co., a name known to residents of Princess Anne County for over 40 years and located NOW at 2101 Atlantic Avenue, across from Cherry-Pearson's Men's Shop — has been offering to the people of this community an optical service that is generally associated only with a metropolitan area.

This service is quick, accurate, and reliable. For those who have the misfortune to need optical repairs and cannot be without their eyeglasses. The Salasky Optical Co. can make these repairs, while you wait and thereby NOT have to be without your good vision for all your workday seeing.

Eyeglass frames, minor adjustments and repairs are made while you wait. Replacement of lens, or lenses, and new eyeglasses, all in a "one day service." This eliminates that unnecessary trip to town which entails in many cases such as transportation to the problem of parking and the feeling of not feeling like a "fella" in a strange place.

The Salasky Optical Co. has this branch of their business on a bench for a number of years and personally conducted by the Salasky family — who reside in Virginia Beach the year round. The other branches of the Salasky Optical Co. are located in Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Newport News.

So for the best in eye care service when you need it call SALASKY OPTICAL

National Club Camp Delegates Named

Four Virginians have been named to represent the State's 4-H Club members at the National 4-H Club Camp in Washington, D. C., June 18 to 25.

They are: Edith Coffin, Nelson County, 1930 State winner of the farm and home electric contest; Regina Buck, Loudoun County, manager of the State poultry demonstration team in 1930; Aubrey Bradshaw, 1931 State meat animal winner; and W. F. Keenling, Jr., Loudoun County, 1947 member of the State livestock judging team.

Dr. W. E. Shelton, State 4-H agent, says the National Camp delegates are chosen on the basis of their 4-H record, community activities, and citizenship.

Theme of the camp, as in years past, is "Know Your Government," and the delegates will have an opportunity to visit many governmental offices, including the Capitol and the Senate and House office buildings. They also will visit the White House, Blair House, and many other places of historical and cultural interest.

Attending the camp will be delegates from all 48 States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and many other countries.

PLAN FOR OUTDOOR LIVING IN SUMMER

Like living out-of-doors? Plan an "outdoor living area" for this summer.

A. B. Beecher, associate horticulturist at VPI, has a few tips to make the area livable: The area needs to be enclosed from view of the passing public or nearby neighbors. Shrub borders and trees will give privacy if properly grouped. Where the area is small, a fence can be used to save space. Screen off work areas such as the clothes line, wood piles, and chicken house. Without privacy, it isn't much fun to eat, sunbathe, or sit outdoors.

Furniture gives a livable touch. Without furniture the area is not complete.

Plan the area so the plant material is varied, and there is interest during the various seasons of the year. This is particularly important if the living area is visible from the rooms of the house. In the winter, select shrubs and trees with colorful bark, evergreen

Huette Guest Speaker Before Woman's Club

Mr. Frederic Huette was the guest speaker at the Princess Anne Woman's Club meeting on May 13 at the Pine Tree Inn. Mr. Huette spoke on beautifying Virginia Beach Boulevard. He was introduced by Mrs. Marvin Marshall, chairman of the garden committee.

Mrs. Robert Torrance sang "In My Garden" and "Mighty Like a Rose." The club also had as its guest Mrs. Alice Brewer White, woman's director of Station WTKR in Norfolk.

Dinner prices were awarded, and Mrs. Furman Day was first winner. Her prize was a garden implement.

The president, Mrs. Fred S. Perkins, appointed a committee to meet with the members of the Princess Anne Garden Club to make arrangements for the coming Fair to be held in the early fall. Members of the committee include: Madeline James Darden, Kermit S. Land, James A. Perkins, Wallace Clark, Harold S. Kehlan, Fred S. Perkins.

New members welcomed into the club were Madeline Margaret Tompkins, E. N. Church, Alfred Craft, Sr., Kenneth Chair, William Roney, and George Bond.

Justices welcomed into the club were Madeline Douglas Stewart, H. Kitchin, Jr., Waverly J. Dickson, Jr., Walter Parker, R. Lynn Kennett, and H. T. Roe.

Sellage, or colorful fruit. During the rest of the year, vary the selection of flowers, shrubs and trees to create interest.

"Control" of weather in the living area helps extend the length of time it can be used. Shade trees are needed to screen the sitting area from the hot sun. Windbreaks often will cut down some of the wind in the fall. Garden pools help give a cooling effect in the summer.

The Boston Tea Party was planned in the back room of the Boston Gazette.

Last year, 1,862,000 Americans were injured in traffic accidents.

Deane Rats Added To Research Lab

A deane white rat, carefully chosen from a famous colony which has been bred under close scrutiny for over 20 years, has recently been added to the Nutrilite Research Laboratories to aid in nutrition research.

The small animal experimentation work will be under the direction of Dr. A. F. Novak, who made a special trip from California to Purdie University to select the rats from Dr. Sigfried M. Flanger's colony at the Purdie experiment station. Dr. Flanger has published many scientific papers from results obtained with his rats.

Dr. Novak and his assistants hope to have a collection of several hundred by the time their experiments are under way. Additions to Nutrilite's biological laboratory have been under construction for several months in order to facilitate the new series of experiments and house the colony.

The public is not allowed in the animal lab. This security is in force in order to maintain the reliability of experimental results and efficiency of operation, and also eliminate other undesirable factors in the animal studies.

As a general rule, results obtained from experiments in rats also hold true when applied to humans. Many

TRAFFIC FACTS

The Ford Model "T" appeared in 1908, it was priced at $2850. Production and customer demand was so great that the price in 1910 had dropped to $710 in 1926.

In Criswell, Augusta County, a motor car on a motor scooter failed to make a curve, left the road, crashed through a cemetery fence and buried the grave of his grandmother. He had been buried two years before.

In Lynchburg, a driver was involved in a crash which cost the life of another party. Investigation showed he had three reckless driving convictions, the last two of which carried suspension of his license for a year in 1949. However he continued to drive without a license when, for some reason, the more serious charge of driving after suspension was not brought. It is hoped the new mandatory jail sentence, effective July 1, for this offense will cut these offenders down to size.

A record of two drunken driving convictions, one for reckless driving.

Records show an 88 per cent increase in traffic convictions for the six months ending March 31, 1952, above the same period a year ago. For drunken driving, 3,696 licenses were revoked against 2,835 for the older six months.

Corpses are often the results of collisions but a corpse caused one near Charlottesville. An undertaker was transporting one in a panel truck when the stretcher worked loose and the corpse slipped forward on the driver. The driver stopped suddenly and a following car crashed into the truck. The other driver opened the door of the truck, saw the corpse moving violently as the driver tried to extricate himself and promptly retired to his own car.

An Indiana motorist was involved in an accident which caused him to lose one of his front wheels. Nothing daunted, he attempted to flee the scene of the accident and was successful for 20 miles before being caught and becoming the recipient of four charges.

On the bulletin board of the Training School in Richmond is a sign: "You can be as tough as nails and still be a gentleman."

Judge Kellam Tells Women of Jury System

The Chesapeake Beach Women's Club held their monthly luncheon on Tuesday in the Community House.

Judge Floyd E. Kellam of the Twenty-eighth Judicial District spoke on "Jury System in Virginia," giving the details of the system. Intelligence and honesty are essential requirements for jury service. Judge Kellam made the observation that juries have improved since the inauguration of the new system including women. He urged that all who can do so serve on jury when called. Judge Kellam was introduced by Mrs. L. L. Dillon.

A brief report of the annual convention of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs was given by Mrs. E. L. Cooper.

Mrs. C. G. Paxon, youth conservation chairman, gave the following report of the activities of the Junior American Citizens Club. At a recent meeting of the J. A. C. Club they contributed $15 to the Community Center Building Fund. $15 to the Volunteer Fire Department to be used to defray the cost of the reusellator unit recently purchased; and $10 to the playground fund of the Community Center. She also announced that new officers for the organization will be elected in June.

'Ghost' Vehicles Of World War II Come Back To Life In Korea

Most of the motorized equipment serving UN troops in Korea has been salvaged from the jungles and fields of Pacific islands.

Thousands of military vehicles, along with huge supplies of spare parts, guns, ammunition and other war material, were left behind on these ocean bastions at the end of World War II.

But, to save what it could from rust and decay, the U. S. Army in 1949 launched one of the most ambitious salvage programs of all time. Dubbed "Operation Rollback," the project, started with collecting vast stores of equipment scattered from Guadalcanal to Okinawa and shipping it to Japan.

More than 60,000 weather-beaten combat and tactical vehicles of all types were rounded up. From their reconstructed parts, some 46,000 rebuilt units have been produced.

Ordnance officers have been amazed at how well vehicle parts—even tires—withstanding the years of exposure to tropical heat and rain.

When the fighting started in Korea, "Operation Rollback" was just getting underway. But, without the equipment it provided, UN troops might not have held on in the early stages of the battle.

Now, the salvage program supplies 84 per cent of the general-purpose vehicles, 38 per cent of the tanks, 80 per cent of all other combat vehicles, 68 per cent of the artillery, 55 per cent of the instruments and 70 per cent of the infantry weapons used by the UN army.

Once all salvaged World War II equipment has been processed, however, the job will not be finished. Vehicles worn out in Korean service continuously pass through the rebuilding process. Some tanks have been rebuilt as many as four times since the war started.

Rebuilding operations are carried on by native workmen in former Japanese factories and arsenals, with machine tools acquired under reparations payments.

Each vehicle is taken apart down to the last nut and bolt. After parts have been sorted and reconditioned, they are built back into vehicles again by assembly line methods.

June. Mrs. Lewis Causey spoke on the referendum to be held May 27 on the bond issue for a proposed central high school for Princess Anne County. She pointed out many reasons why the residents of the county should vote for the bond issue.

Mrs. Vernon E. Miles, president of the Suburban Women's Club, was a guest. She extended an invitation to the members of the Chesapeake Beach Women's Club and their families to attend the Children's Concert sponsored by her club in the early fall.

The president, Mrs. R. W. Sporrill spoke on the many awards the club received at the V. F. W. C. convention and displayed the certificates, pass book and Defense Bonds (two $25 Citizenship in Action Award) received.

Other visitors at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. James Boyersmith of Franklin, Penn., parents of Mrs. C. G. Clough.

Speeding on U. S. streets and highways last year injured 870,080 men, women and children.

Staff Members Announced For Scout Day Camp

Staff members of the annual day camp for Girl Scouts and Brownies of the Tidewater area have been announced and will be under the direction of Mrs. Henry Heddy of Chesapeake Beach, assisted by Mrs. Roy Dool, Jr., of Virginia Beach. Camp Lighthouse will open July 1 and will close its sessions on July 31.

The post of Unit Leader falls on the shoulders of Mrs. John Tucker of Virginia Beach, who will be assisted by Mrs. Louis Gray also of Virginia Beach.

Other members of the staff are Mrs. F. O. Miller, of Lynnhaven; Mrs. F. R. Shild and Mrs. E. A. G. of London Bridge; Mrs. C. C. Minor, Mrs. G. Dill, Mrs. L. Smith, Mrs. F. Pentim and Mrs. A. Hoggard, of Virginia Beach.

The camp will be divided into two groups, one for the older girls and one for the younger set.

Each group will plan their day's activities according to their own interests. Two adults will be in charge of each group.

A registered nurse, Mrs. John Chiquery, of Little Terrace, will be on hand during their days at the camp.

A small fee is being collected from each girl to cover the camp fee, use of the equipment, all the craft supplies, food for some of the cook-outs and milk for each girl every day.

Twenty-eight pieces are used in the game of dominoes.

SCHOOL BOND ISSUE WINS 9-1; VOTE LIGHT

Voters of Princess Anne County overwhelmingly approved the $2,500,000 school bond issue on Tuesday, giving the go-ahead to the county high school and other improvements in the county school system.

The unofficial results showed a 9 to 1 vote in favor of the bond issue. In the 13 precincts, 2,467 favored the issue and 266 were opposed. There were 2,743 votes cast but the judges ruled 10 void.

Heaviest voting was in the London Bridge precinct where 596 voted. Smallest total of votes was in Wash Woods where nine cast their ballot.

The bond issue will enable the School Board to go ahead with construction of a new central high school for the county on a 37½-acre site already selected and under option at Thelma, bordering the north side of the Virginia Beach Boulevard to the west of Thelma Creek. It also will enable the county to make a $450,000 addition to the Princess Anne County Training School, Negro high school, at Esclido.

The vote was three times as large as that of March 7, 1950, the last time the county had a school bond referendum. On that date, the county voted 718 to 190 for a $250,000 bond to build Negro schools, after it had been defeated twice before with smaller votes of 359 to 331 on June 30, 1948, and 432 to 161 on December 16, 1947.

Kempville District, in the 1948 vote, approved, 182 to 113, a bond issue of $225,000 for additions and improvements for Kempville High School. The total of 295 voters then was substantially exceeded by the 485 votes in the latest returns of the district.

In the same 1948 election, Pungo District adopted a $100,000 bond issue for enlargement of the Creed's school, which was approved by a turnout of 173 voters was exceeded by the Creed's precinct alone yesterday, which had 206 voters.

Yesterday's Princess Anne vote by precinct follows in the approximate order in which the reports came in:

New Voting Precinct At 3110 Pacific Ave.

Virginia Beach's newest voting precinct, Precinct No. 2, will be located at 3110 Pacific Avenue, next to the Sun-News Building. It has been announced by the Virginia Beach Electoral Board.

No. 1 Precinct is located at the fire station at 20th Street and Arctic Avenue. The two voting places will be used in the forthcoming June 10 city council election.

FEDERAL AID ON EROSION SEEN

Federal financial assistance in Virginia Beach's gigantic erosion control project seemed definitely assured after a visit by members of the United States Erosion Board to Virginia Beach last Monday.

One member of the board, although stating that he could not speak for the entire group, expressed the view that the Virginia Beach work "fits all the requirements of Federal aid."

Members of the Erosion Board were feted at a luncheon Monday at the Cavalier Hotel and were conducted on a tour of the eroded portion of the beachfront and the site selected for dredging operations. The group left immediately for Atlantic City where they went in session Tuesday to discuss many national problems including the Virginia Beach project.

Meanwhile, word from the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission indicated that the dredge will arrive at the Lake Redde site on Saturday or Monday and that the usual pumping is expected to begin next week. One member of the commission stated that the first phase of the beach restoration project would be completed by August 1. This would be the establishment of a 100-foot-wide beach from Seventh Street north to 22nd Street. It is hoped that available funds will permit this work to extend to 26th Street.

Col. Woodson Urges Caution In Holiday Driving

As the long Memorial Day weekend approaches, Col. C. W. Woodson, Superintendent of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, reminded the public that the holiday is one for honoring the dead—not for joining them through the senseless medium of a traffic crash.

Colonel Woodson called attention to the fact that last Memorial Day alone, falling on Wednesday, as a five traffic deaths were reported. "We cannot predict how many will die during the three-day holiday," he said. "Too much depends on chance. Traffic factors as how many are riding in automobiles involved in crashes or that thin line of demarcation between a fatal and a near-fatal accident. However, normal traffic volumes are about 9 per cent above those of last year, and the holiday, falling on a Friday, will be certain to send hurrying throngs to the highways with the most dangerous potentialities."

Citing the most obvious dangers against which to guard, Colonel Woodson urged drivers to shorten the traveling time and observe every minute possible out of the time to be spent at destinations as perhaps the most fatal. Driving while exhausted, driving while drinking, and not making every allowance for increased traffic and drivers operating under the stated conditions follow closely, he said. "Have your car checked mechanically; start early so you won't be tempted to hurry; don't touch the wheel after drinking; don't wait until the last minute, when you're tired and sleepy, before starting home; be aware every driving minute of the increased hazards and your chances for an accident-free trip will be good," was his advice.

He remarked also that Memorial Day is the beginning of the vacation season and that deaths can be expected to rise sharply during the summer months. Vacationists, he continued, should follow substantially the same rules given for those driving on week-end holidays.

Baptists Will Open New Building 15th

The new building for the Baptist Church at Virginia Beach will be completed, with the exception of pews and light fixtures for the auditorium, by June 15. Plans are being laid for the congregation to have the opening on Sunday, June 15.

"Buddy Poppies" Will Be Sold Here

"V. F. W. Buddy Poppies are fashioned by the same hands that flew the planes, steered the ships, or manned the guns in the struggle for freedom and democracy." Commander Nae, of V. F. W. Post No. 7146, reminded today in announcing the annual sale of the little crimson flowers to be held in Virginia Beach on May 31.

Disabled veterans in government hospitals and soldiers' homes actually do the work of assembling the Buddy Poppies; and they receive compensation for their work, Commander Nae said. Not only has this activity proved of real therapeutic value, he declared, but it also provides some extra spending money so that these men may buy some of the little extra comforts the Veterans Administration does not give them.

He explained that funds realized from sale of Buddy Poppies to the public are used exclusively for the welfare and service work of the V. F. W.

"Most of the money raised locally will stay right here in Virginia Beach," he said, "and will assist us in caring for the needs of our own sick and disabled veterans."

'Master' Zoning Plan Discussion on Agenda of PA County Supervisors

Army Pulls Navy From Sea at Fort

Two Fort Story soldiers were instrumental in the rescue of two Little Creek sailors on Sunday May 25, when the 160th type sailboat in which the sailors had put out, turned over. Corp. Lester B. Viprent and Corp. Thomas C. Andrews, of the 260th Transportation Amphibious Truck Company, were manning a DUKW, the Army amphibious truck, on a regular ferry run from Fort Story to the SS John A. Donald, a training ship offshore. They spotted the two men in the water, clinging to an overturned sailboat, and retrieved the sailors and the sailboat.

The Little Creek men, Donald W. Perry and Herbert K. Christensen, had been in the water for about an hour and a half when help came; the rigging on the little sailboat had fouled, and the boat turned over about a half-hour after they set sail from a (Continued on page three)

RESCUE SQUAD HAS BUSY MONTH

As the first month of operation draws to a close, the Virginia Beach-Princess Anne Rescue Squad through May 25 had been called out twenty times on calls of all types.

Busiest single day of the month was on the 15th when the squad responded to three calls. The month's calls were located throughout Virginia Beach and Princess Anne County.

The squad has set aside the month of June to raise funds to complete their equipment needs. The following items are needed:

- Overhaul engine in Rescue Truck.
- Siren for Rescue Truck.
- Acetylene torch and tanks for Rescue.
- Power hydraulic jack for extracting victims.
- Welding and alterations of body of Rescue Truck.
- Paint for Rescue Truck.
- Portable electric power plant with cable.
- Portable lights for power plant.
- Three-way radios for vehicles.
- Two Emerson Flashers.
- Two Kiddee 20-inch fire extinguishers.
- Inter-communication system to police station.
- Stationary for coming year.

A master zoning plan for Princess Anne County is to be discussed at a special meeting of the county's Board of Supervisors on June 9, it was agreed at a meeting of the Board on Monday.

The plan is necessitated by the rapid urban growth of the county and the Board is calling on the State Department of Conservation and Development for help. The Board will also study the plans now in effect in Fairfax and Arlington counties.

Paul W. Ackiss, Commonwealth Attorney, told the Board at its Monday meeting that 3,500 dwelling units are planned in the county by the Federal government and private developers, not including private dwellings.

The Board empowered its secretary, V. W. Etheridge, to collect all arrears license fees of $15 per trailer for utilities hook-up. It was also decided to charge a $5 fee for each septic tank permit, not only in trailer camps but in other construction.

An amendment to the trailer camp ordinance was passed, whereby the Board will approve the location and use permit of such camps.

Approved on second reading was an ordinance calling for an annual license fee of $1,000 for fortune tellers, palmists and phrenologists. This is in addition to the state fee of $500.

Leslie Lambe, an attorney for the fortune tellers, told the Board he would carry the case to court. He said he believed it was illegal in its intentions to drive his clients out of business. He did not indicate when he would file suit.

Also approved on second reading was an ordinance requiring inoculation of all dogs against rabies. (Continued on page three)

Virginia Beach, in cooperation with State officials, has begun a program calling for strict enforcement of traffic laws, particularly in the case of excessive speed by motorists within the city and its outskirts.

The program is in line with the State's new laws governing speed on the highways and in cities. Most recent legislation empowers the court to suspend the guilty driver's license for a period set by the court.

According to City Manager Philip Ancell, the State has been requested to assign additional personnel to Virginia Beach area to police North Virginia Beach and other approaches to the city.

The new enforcement powers have already been felt in Virginia Beach. On Tuesday night the Virginia Beach court fined one motorist $100 and meted out a 10-day suspended sentence, and suspended the driver's Virginia permit for a period of 60 days.

"The drive we have started here in Virginia Beach is in cooperation with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee and other state groups who have endorsed the plan as a means to lessen our deplorable traffic deaths," Police Chief Reeves E. Johnson said.

"We have observed numerous violations of speed laws from 26th street to north Virginia Beach, and now we are in a position to suspend the offender's driver's license under the new laws," Johnson continued.

Officials are of the opinion that a disregard of public safety and indifference of drivers are the main causes of traffic accidents. They promise there will be no let-up in the drive to curb speedsters on the streets of Virginia Beach.

Plans Being Made For County Fair

According to a report from Mrs. Fred S. Perkins, president of the Princess Anne County Woman's Club, and Mr. James A. Darden, president of the Princess Anne County Ruritan Club, plans are well under way for the Princess Anne County Fair, to be held in the early fall under the sponsorship of these two clubs.

The board of directors, which is composed of Mr. Linus Williams, Mr. Kermit S. Land, Mr. E. R. Thompson, Mr. H. W. Olin, Mr. V. (Jack) A. Etheridge and Mr. James A. Darden, of the Ruritan Club; Mrs. Harold B. Kellam, Mrs. James A. Darden, Mrs. Kermit S. Land and Mrs. Fred S. Perkins of the Woman's Club, will meet early in June to announce committees, chairman and start the program going in full force.

The county fair, which has previously been sponsored by these clubs, has always been received with great interest and enthusiasm, and Princess Anne County is ready again to support this project.

Human Engineering New Safety Technique

RICHMOND, Va., May 15.—The future pattern of preventing accidents on the highways and in industry may need increased emphasis on human engineering as a new safety technique that will "save people from themselves" by dispelling the notion that they "lead a charmed life," the Virginia Statewide Safety Conference was told here today by Dewey Dorsett, general manager of the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

Asserting that 99,000 Americans were killed and another 9,100,000 were injured in accidents that cost $8,000,000,000 in 1951, Mr. Dorsett said the greatest engineering fronting the safety movement is the task of "selling individual responsibility" that will prevent accidents.

"We must bring into the consciousness of our fellow Americans that not mere statistics were killed, it was people," the speaker declared. "The death of 37,500 persons in motor vehicle accidents in 1951 must be shifted from a statistical table into the death of human beings, each one of them as valuable to the family and to society as you or I; each one of them possessed of a just life and living, eating and working or studying, just as you or I."

"They were not mere abstract impersonal 37,500 digits who might as well have lived on Mars for as much as most appear to care, but rather they were people whose chances of living and receiving pay checks had appeared as good as ours do today."

Pointing out that while the United States this year is celebrating 40 years of an organized safety movement, motor vehicle accidents led the list last year as the nation's No. 1 accident killer, with home accidents second, Mr. Dorsett said this record shows that "we have not yet convinced the individual of his personal responsibility to work safely, to drive safely, to think safely and to live safely."

Apparently, he added, "our task is to save people from themselves. We may distribute this need to a strange perversion in human nature which stubbornly refuses to heed warnings and considers accidents only in terms of application to someone else but does not refuse to bemoan the fact that this condition exists."

THE "AGINERS" AGAIN

Last week a contemporary newspaper that is circulated in Virginia Beach made one of the most unjustified attacks on the individual and the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission that it has been our experience to observe. It violated a cardinal rule of journalism in that the writer of the editorial apparently failed to check the facts, but merely set down to write a long tirade against an individual and a group of hard working, civic-minded businessmen who serve their community at every call.

The writer attacked Fred A. Haycox as president of the Croatan Beach Corporation and indicated that this corporation was the stumbling block to the Erosion Commission. This, too, was garbled information, since the great majority of the land which the commission is attempting to purchase is owned by the Croatan Corporation, an entirely separate corporation. The Croatan Beach Corporation property is south of the property desired by the Commission. But, of course, the editorial writer had to twist the facts to make his point.

The Commission is to be commended in its efforts to obtain the sand at the lowest possible price, and the City Council in its cooperation with the Commission. At the same time, the owners have made what they consider a fair offer to sell the sand at 10 cents per yard. But the editorial writer was not concerned with the facts in his determination to criticize. We marvel, too, at the writer's ability to condemn the work of the Commission and at the same time condemn the corporation in the sand negotiations.

The editorial further indicates that the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission, which is doing an outstanding public service and following recommendations of the United States Army Engineers in their endeavor to restore the sand beach, is keeping something from the public. Again, the writer has twisted the facts. At the very outset it was made clear that even the meetings of the commissioners were open to the public and their proceedings and work were of public record. In contrast to the editorial the commission has opened its doors to the public at all times. Just why anyone would attempt to belittle the work of these men when they have undertaken a thankless job is beyond our comprehension. There is a monumental task and one that should receive the gratification of all.

Probably the writer of the editorial last week is one of those who are against everything, even themselves, at times, it would seem.

HOW TIMES CHANGE!

It is interesting how time changes a person's way of thinking. This is particularly true in the case of one of the anti-candidates in the coming city council election. It seems that John H. Bell has changed his way of thinking.

For several years when Mr. Bell resided in North Virginia Beach, outside the corporate limits of Virginia Beach, he continued to exercise his voting prerogative by voting in Virginia Beach. Now Mr. Bell resides on Avenue A in Virginia Beach and he is a candidate for the city council. He was one of the petitioners who recently attempted to have hundreds of citizens denied the right to vote for various reasons, one of which was that they did not reside in Virginia Beach.

Strange that Mr. Bell, himself, voted in Virginia Beach elections while he resided outside its corporate limits, but now he decides that others who are still in the position he formerly occupied, should be denied the right to vote.

We wonder if this type of thinking and indecision is indicative of the political opposition.

DESTRUCTION FROM WITHIN

Dr. Leo Wolman, Professor of Economics at Columbia University, recently pointed to England and France as examples of the fact that "it is as easy for a country to weaken or destroy itself from within as from without."

He then said, "Our course since the war is calculated to create and nurture the very evils against which we are supposed to be protecting ourselves. The first of these is large scale financial instability. Our policies are leading straight toward progressive decline in the value of our money, investments and contractual obligations. However much we tax we shall not arrest these trends." Finally, Dr. Wolman observed that if we are to stop statism throughout the world, "the first place to stop it is at home."

By this time, the American people should certainly have awakened to the menace of spendthrift government. It is estimated that one-fourth of the income of a family receiving the modest sum of $3500 a year goes for taxes, open and hidden, direct and indirect. As income brackets go up, the tax burden skyrockets. And future tax increases must fall mainly on people in the middle and lower income brackets—for the simple reason that this is the only possible source of substantial revenue that is left. It's no longer a case of just soaking the rich. The rich are soaked to the hilt now, and if government took every nickel of their incomes it wouldn't begin to pay the costs.

Fiscal irresponsibility has destroyed thousands of families—and it can destroy nations just as surely.

"Announced determination of leaders in industry, labor, farm groups and others to put a 'stop' sign on the ascending spiral of prices, and a declaration of war against government waste, indiscriminate needless expenditures, and blue-sky operation of armed force procurement officers would, in our judgment do more to end the threat of war and bolster the security of our people than any single step that could be taken. Furthermore, we believe it would at once affect our economy so that a worker's dollar would regain much of its value as a medium of exchange."—Apollo, Pa., News-Record.

DALE CARNEGIE

SOME PEOPLE NEVER DIE

When George Schmidt, Minneapolis, received word that his father had died, he traveled home on an airplane. Looking down through the window he saw some houses through a hole in clouds, and noticed one particularly, a little white house, bathed in sunshine.

Then he thought of another white house in Jersey which he used to visit. A little old Swedish lady lived in that house, and it was a place to go if you had any problems on your mind. The door always opened wide when you knocked and there was Mrs. Ryander with a big smile on her face. She had a heart as big as the world, and she loved everyone. If she heard someone was sick, she would prepare some tasty dish. She sent flowers from her garden to all the shut-ins she knew, and she had a smile and a cheerful word for everybody. George remembered that when this little lady died a host of friends came to bid her farewell. He thought then that some people can never really die; they leave too much of themselves in this world; all the good, kind things become a part of everyone they have contacted, and though they may leave this world, they live on in the hearts of all who knew them.

Suddenly he felt very peaceful, because his father had been that kind of a man, a grand guy, who loved to laugh and to make other people laugh with him. He remembered his own happy childhood, and all the kind words and the understanding his father had given him. He knew he would never see his father alive again, but he knew, too, that he wasn't dead—he could never die. He left too much of himself with his son, and with all the people he had ever known. Although sadness remained, the terrible despondency, the crushing grief was gone. He understood then how one may really achieve eternal life, and he found peace in that understanding.

Early New England women bleached their sheets by spreading them with sour milk and putting them in the sun.

Virginia Beach News-Sun:

Thanks for letting us in on one of the most delightful bits of reading we have enjoyed for ages. . . "The Truth About Mothers." I'm shut in most of the time and do lots of reading, and this was so thoroughly honest, so untouched with any cool-up paint, and so full of smiles and tears that I think it's worth the price of my year's subscription.

My neighbor, with children, said: "It's just like most of us mothers—how did those boys find words to 'sue' us so perfectly?"
Thanks, boys! And thanks Mr. Editor.

Interesting Facts About Virginia

INDUSTRY

Industry in Virginia began in 1608 with the establishment of a glass factory at Jamestown but the first industrial community in the State sprang up around Governor Spotswood's Ironworks at Germanna in 1715. Today, most of the factories produce food and silk goods and tobacco products. Other industries are furniture, fish and vegetable canneries, leather products, machinery, and fertilizer.

THE PETTY PLACE

By Brown Lee Yates

I know a fellow whose malady runs its natural course three times while he waited in a doctor's reception room for five minutes medical attention. Seems to me, after waiting a long time, to deserve the five minutes undivided, but sometimes you don't get it.

For instance, why is it every time I get settled in Doc's inner sanctum with a spatula planked against my tonsil, his secretary rushes in on some business unrelated to my affliction?

Kempville High School's Creative Writing folder, which was composed of two essays, two short stories, and two poems, was judged superior in the recent Group Two Creative Writing Contest.

Carolyn Noffler's essay, "Age of Adolescence," was judged distinguished, and we quote from the letter from the University of Virginia: "Most decidedly the best piece of work in this book."

Other contestants, their work and ratings are: Catherine Whitehurst, "The Chronological," an essay, creditable. Donna Leigh Dorer, "The Spectator," short story, superior. Joan Ashely, "As Long As I Shall Breathe," short story, superior. Anne Newlin, "The Presidential Derby," poem, creditable. Bill Johns, "Days," poem, superior.

Eighty Greyhounds At Moveck Track

Here comes Rury is again a familiar echo each night at the Cavalier Kannel Club, which has opened its gates for the fourth consecutive season.

Eighty top greyhounds have been selected for tonight's action with ten races on tap. As usual, the daily double will be the first and second races with Quinela tickets being sold from the second through the tenth races.

Schooling races for the coming season were completed this week and over five hundred dogs are ready to go. Many favorites of last year have returned and have given a good account of themselves during the pre-season grind. Several newcomers, however, appear ready to offer strong competition to the veteran kennels.

One of the many improvements this year is the Aldritt rabbit. This type lure holds favor with greyhound men all over the country. It enables the dog to run a smoother race which guarantees more dependable performance. Another feature which racing fans will cheer is the asphaltting of the parking area.

The track is located on route 170 just over the Virginia-North Carolina State line. For those travelling by bus consult the Norfolk Southern bus terminal whose fare includes admission to the track. General Manager Joe Tobin announces that men in uniform will again be admitted free. We also stressed that no minors will be admitted. Post time for the first race is 8:15 p.m.

EVER HAD A

"HOT STICK"?

FLIP a switch — press a button — turn a dial — plug in — chances are that's the closest you'll ever come to a "hot stick," unless you're a lineman for an electric company.

For a "hot-stick" is a tool on the business end of a six- or eight-foot insulated pole . . . part of the equipment used by VEPCO crews in making repairs on live or "hot" lines, without interrupting your electric service—even while the transfer or repairs are being made. Maybe it was the adept use of one of these "hot-sticks" that made it possible for you to brown your toast this morning, or watch your favorite TV show last night.

Dozens of times a day you flip a switch or press a button and the miracle of electricity is at your service. Behind the miracle are men—linemen, hot-stick crews, trouble-shooters, load dispatchers, engineers—and many other men and women who keep the business machinery working smoothly so that you enjoy the best electric service in the world, at the cheapest cost.

These VEPCOVIANS (more than 4,400 of them!) are your friends and neighbors in more ways than one . . . for in addition to living near you going to the same churches, spending with the same merchants, and working on the same civic teams . . . every time you turn on your living-room lamp, they deliver what you ask for, in one ten-millionth of a second!

Rural Churches, Farm Folk, Pledge to Aid Impoverished

Representatives of Virginia churches and rural churches met Monday in the auditorium of the Southern States Building in Richmond and adopted a plan to be carried out in the coming 12 months for aid to impoverished European and Atlantic countries.

The meeting was the first of the newly organized Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) in a committee of the Virginia Council of Churches, with Governor Battle as honorary chairman.

Dr. Paul E. Sanders, editor of the Southern States, who was elected chairman of the project, presided.

Representative J. Vaughan Gury, who recently returned from a 30,000-mile trip to the Orient, told the state-wide gathering, "The Marshall Plan, in my judgment, has stopped Communist aggression in Europe. The program is now limited, however, to military objectives, which leaves a vast field to be served by voluntary efforts, such as that of CROP."

"Communism," he added, "is now moving on in the Far East. It is my hope that a well-organized program in that section will be as effective as the Marshall Plan has been in Europe."

The Rev. Carl R. Key, of Durham, N. C., regional director of CROP, said that "food is the best weapon for peace we know—a weapon that CROP wields."

He explained the program, which is operated by farmers and farm co-operatives throughout the nation donating foodstuffs of all kinds through the rural churches.

The churches turn the foodstuffs over to Church World Service, which sends them abroad, where the government is paying shipping expenses. The food is distributed by missionaries or representatives of the churches, and last year had a record of 99.7/10 per cent of all food given reaching its destination which is a remarkable figure.

W. H. Taylor, president of the Farmers Exchange, was elected vice-chairman of the organization, and Earl J. Shifflet, deputy of the Virginia Grange was made secretary. The Rev. Clarence M. Brown was elected to serve as Director of the CROP effort in the State of Virginia.

The board of directors of the State committee, which will attempt to secure 50 carloads of food from 75 Virginia counties includes Governor John S. Battle, honorary chairman; Mrs. Joseph D. Deal, president, Va. Council of Church Women, Merrie Acres, Loudon Bridge, Va.

Welfare Aid To Be Increased Ten Percent In July

Standard monthly allowances for food, clothing and personal care for persons on public assistance programs were raised by approximately 10 per cent by the Department of Welfare and Institutions, to become effective July 1.

These allowances serve as the basis on which the needs of applicants are estimated, and are arranged according to six age and activity groups. The increases are the first since 1949, the department announced, and are planned to meet the increase in cost of living since the last scale was fixed.

Local welfare departments may make the higher payments effective July 1, and they must be put into effect by October 1.

In the new allowances, inactive adults, both men and women, are allowed $18.00 per month for food, $3.00 for clothing, $2.00 for personal care, and $1.00 for household supplies. "Inactive" adults are those unable to work or take care of themselves because of age or physical disabilities.

Active women are allowed $10.00 per month for food, $4.25 for clothing, and the same allowances for personal care and household supplies as inactive adults.

No allowances for "active" men are authorized, since they are considered able to work.

Allowances for children fall into four groups, according to age. Children under four are allowed a total of $14.00 per month, of which $10.25 is for food and $3.75 for clothing. For children four to six years old, the total of $14.00 is allowed, and for seven through nine years, $25.00. From thirteen through seventeen years, $28.00 is the total allowance.

Department officials pointed out that these allowances are not automatic grants, but rather based to be used by which local departments compute the individual's needs.

Whatever income the family has from employment, from gardens and livestock, or from contributions by relatives, is deducted from these standard allowances before a final public assistance grant is made.

In preparing these new allowance standards, the Department of Welfare and Institutions made (Continued on page three)

W. M. Thompson Is Made Coordinator Of Training Program

Mr. Webster M. Thompson has been appointed coordinator of the newly organized Engineering Cooperative Training Program. I. W. Webb, Jr., director of the College of William and Mary-V.P.I. in Norfolk, has announced.

Mr. Thompson will have his headquarters at the Norfolk Division of V.P.I. but will visit all sections of the State to assist industries and students in formulating the program. Under the cooperative plan engineering students will alternate every three months between college and industry. Thus it is possible for a student to earn his entire college expense and in a five year period to earn his B.S. degree and two years of valuable practical experience. Most industries recognize the cooperative plan as the best method for training engineers and prefer these graduates.

Mr. Thompson, a native of Fauquier county, Virginia, brings a wealth of training and experience into the newly created position. He is an engineer, obtaining his B.S. degree from the U. S. Naval Academy and his M.S. degree from Columbia University. His many duties with the Navy have carried him over much of the world and climaxed with the very important assignment as production superintendent of the Norfolk Naval Shipyard from July, 1940, to 1944. This was a period of

VPI Studying Hard and Soft Water Question

Is there any advantage in providing soft water for lactating dairy cows?

A recently completed 112-day test at V.P.I. Agricultural Experimental Station indicates that the answer is "no."

Dr. G. C. Graf, dairy researcher at the station, says the question has been discussed pro and con for a long time, but on the basis of observations, not experimental evidence. The V.P.I. test is believed to be the first of its kind.

In the test, 12 lactating cows were selected and grouped according to age, size, milk production, and stage of lactation. The two groups were fed alike, and each cow received alfalfa hay, corn silage and grain. The only difference in the rations of the two groups was in the kind of water consumed.

One group received water as it was pumped from the wells on the campus. The other group received water from the same source which was softened by the zeolite process in which the calcium and magnesium were removed, and sodium added in their place.

The "hard" water was somewhat "wilder" than the average household water for washing clothes and dishes. After the water passed through the zeolite practically no hardness was present.

During the 112-day test the average daily feed consumption was 10 pounds of alfalfa hay, 30 pounds of corn silage, and 12 pounds of grain per cow. The cows on "hard" water produced 33 pounds of milk and consumed 97.1 pounds of water daily. The cows on "soft" water produced 32.2 pounds of milk daily, and consumed exactly the same amount of water. There was a slight difference in the rate of gain in body weight per day between the two groups, but not a significant difference. It could have been due to chance, Dr. Graf said.

He concluded: "The results indicate that for the lactating dairy cow when the water is no harder than used in the test, there is no need of softening the water used for lactating cows."

great activity and peak production for the yard.

In 1947 he retired from the Navy with the rank of Commodore, and now makes his home at Virginia Beach. Upon retiring he attended college for a year taking refresher courses in engineering, and in September, 1948, he joined the engineering faculty of the Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary-V.P.I. He has been teaching in the college and its technical institute since that time.

Mr. Thompson will be happy to explain the details of the Engineering Cooperative Training Program to any interested students or industries. He may be reached at his office in the Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary-V.P.I., Bolling Avenue and Hampton Boulevard, Norfolk.

Automotive Uses Of Mobile Radio Grow In Variety

Mobile two-way radio has become a valuable tool to the management of automotive transportation industries.

The extensive and successful use of mobile radio communication by the armed forces during World War II spurred its rapid adoption by industry. Wartime technical improvements in mobile, high frequency equipment further accelerated this trend.

Already standard equipment in the taxicab industry, mobile radio also is proving its value in many other types of motor vehicle fleet operations.

The range of its uses is suggested by the various titles given separate FCC frequency allocations. A few examples are: Automobile Emergency Radio Service, Intercity Bus Radio Service, Highway Truck Radio Service, Highway Maintenance Radio Service, Fire Radio Service, and Special Industrial Radio Service.

The outstanding example of radio's application in motor vehicle transportation, however, is the taxicab industry. In the U.S. alone, as of June 1, 1951, there were 3,179 individual taxi radio systems operating in the United States. The number of individual radio-equipped cabs is more difficult to determine, but according to the best available estimate there are more than 30,000. These units, with their associated base stations, represent an investment in radio equipment of approximately $15-million.

Taxi operators adopted two-way radio principally to cut down their non-revenue mileage. But they found that it also gave them other advantages.

For the first time, cab companies were able to control the movements of their units. This control improved service, increased call business and brought bigger paychecks to the drivers.

Auction Most Popular Mode Of Livestock Sale

The livestock auction market is the most popular outlet for livestock sales in Virginia, according to recently compiled results of a survey of some 7,000 farms in 47 Virginia counties.

J. D. Johnson, agricultural economist at the V.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station, says further about 80 per cent of the farmers selling livestock through auction markets live within 30 miles of the auction.

Many farmers, the study also showed, are relying on the buyer to transport their livestock in 1950. About 33 per cent of the cattle, 23 per cent of the calves, 39 per cent of the hogs and 16 per cent of the lambs were moved from the farm in the buyer's truck. The livestock producer selling only a few animals for slaughter purposes tends to depend more on the buyer's mode of transportation than does the larger producer.

About one-third of the slaughter cattle and calves sold by Virginia farmers in 1950 were classed as dairy type animals. Nearly one-fourth of all cattle and calves were less than six months old when sold. However, the largest percentage of slaughter cattle were sold when two years old or older. Only eight per cent of the best-type animals were sold when less than six months old, whereas 42 per cent of the mixed-type and 55 per cent of the dairy-type were less than six months old when sold.

Farmers reported very little change in the number of dairy cows slightly over 60 per cent of the slaughter cattle and 92 per cent of the lambs were finished on grass.

District Tractor Operators Contests Planned In June

Youthful tractor operators will vie for district honors in the 4-H contests scheduled in June.

W. A. Turner, associate State 4-H Club agent at V.P.I., says top operators from the district contests then will compete for State awards at the State 4-H tractor operator's contest at V.P.I. Wednesday, June 25, which is being held as a part of the State 4-H Club Short Course.

The district contests are scheduled: June 3 in Pulaski; June 5 in Petersburg; June 6 in Luray; and June 11 in Lynchburg.

Chesapeake Beach teenagers are featured in the June issue of "Country Gentleman" in an article entitled "Our Teen-Agers Speak Up—What a Life Depends On You," which describes in detail the improved artificial respiration method being taught by the American Red Cross.

Step by step shots with direction are also shown with Jimmy Laffin as the victim and Johnny Johnson as operator.

The boys are members of the Junior Volunteer Fire Department, sponsored by the Senior Volunteer Fire Department of Chesapeake Beach. The girls and boys are members of the Junior American Citizens Club sponsored by the Woman's Club of Chesapeake Beach. Both youth groups were organized in conjunction with the "Build Freedom With Youth" program of the Woman's Club.

Speaking of the approved artificial respiration method, the author quoted the Chesapeake Beach teenagers as saying:

"If the method isn't being taught in your school or by an organization to which you belong, why not see if you can't learn it? If you or your department won't hold a special class for your group."

Miss Mary F. Hutchinson, author of the article, states, in a letter to the Woman's Club: "Country Gentleman decided to work with the Chesapeake Beach teenagers in their efforts for young people as told in the story in the Build Freedom With Youth program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs."

NEED FOR DHIA SUPERVISORS CITED

Virginia needs more dairy herd improvement supervisors, says Glen R. Pursey, assistant dairy husbandman at V.P.I., says supervisory positions now are open in Prince William, King William, Nottingham, and Orange, and vacancies are expected in other DHIA's. The pay is $250-$325 per month, including lodging and meals.

A training course for DHIA supervisors is scheduled for June 9-21 at V.P.I. If you are interested, see your county agent, or write the Dairy Husbandry Office, Agricultural Extension Service, V.P.I., Blacksburg.

Seaview Beach Opens Tomorrow

Seaview Beach begins its 1952 season on Friday, May 30. Memorial Day, which marks the official opening of this popular facility. The occasion will be celebrated with a start-ling fireworks exhibition.

This season will be the sixth year that Seaview Beach has been operated as an amusement park. When this park was installed, it was the first Negro park to have the benefit of original and new riding devices; it not only has new rides, but has five major rides which put it in a class with the finest white parks of the country.

The management has been busy the past few months in providing concrete walkways throughout the park. For the small fry, in addition to the merry-go-round, a new boat ride installation has been made which should prove popular. For the teenagers and adults, the park will boast of a battery of skee ball alleys which will be found in only the most progressive amusement parks in the country.

All of the picnic benches in both the old and new sections have been decorated in gay summer colors and it is certain that the picnickers will enjoy the improvement. This picnic section is installed with tables and benches to accommodate 1,000 persons at a time. In the center of this area is constructed a 30x30 foot elevated stage, on which free acts and musical bands are offered.

Some of the acts booked for the 1952 season and the dates on which they will appear follow:

May 30, fireworks.
June 16 to 22, Willard & Co., il-lusionists.
June 30 to July 6, Wanda Dixon and her trained seah.
July 7 to 13, Royal chimpanzees.

In Virginia a family of an active mother and three boys, five, eight, and fifteen, in the new standard needs $98.10 for the four items of food, clothing, personal care, and household supplies, of which $63.30 is for food.

Funds to cover the increase were appropriated by the 1952 General Assembly.

24-D KILLS
HONEYSUCKLE

Don't kill honeysuckle (Lonicera) just yet—it has some uses. John Amos, weed specialist, V.F.W., says that in many cases honeysuckle prevents erosion, and provides cover for wildlife. It is a forage for cattle when little else is available. Honeysuckle does some animal food material, however, modern forage crops are superior.

To kill honeysuckle along roadsides, in front of houses, where it hides a scenic view, and in other desirable places, Amos suggests 2,4-D at the rates suggested on the container. If there are also trees and small woody bushes in the area to be cleared, a mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T will give better results.

Be careful when spraying 2,4-D about the home, as the spray drifts to other plants and damages them. Vapors from sprayed areas may injure very sensitive plants such as tobacco, cotton, tomatoes, and vine crops.

Since it is hard to free sprayings of 2,4-D, Amos suggests using a sprayer to spray insecticides and fungicides.

While radio increased the individual efficiency of each cab, it did not result in a reduction of the accidents in operation. On the contrary, increased business resulting from better service permitted many radio-equipped cab companies to increase their fleets.

In the trucking field, a large trans-shipment company found that 10 radio-equipped trucks were the equal of 15 non-equipped units in certain types of operations. Inter-city business and fuel oil delivery companies are among the most extensive users of mobile radio communication.

Auto clubs have found radio-equipped service trucks to be the answer to the problems faced by emergency road service departments during periods of bad winter weather. Road builders, too, are finding radio a particularly useful tool in controlling traffic or in coordinating projects where an even flow of materials is essential, such as in construction operations.

The chief value of two-way radio in its motor transportation applications is that it gives management complete and coordinated control over mobile units. This control increases the productivity of the automobile equipment involved and contributes to safety.

Transit companies use radio intensively in their maintenance trucks and in the vehicles of claim adjusters and supervisors.

Damage From Corn Borer Moths

Spraying for control ordinarily has not been justified in Virginia, although there are exceptions. Only the largest farmers, or those who want to do custom spraying, find it economical to buy the high cost spraying equipment.

Woodside recommends these measures for reducing corn borer injury: use an approved adapted hybrid; fertilize adequately; and plant corn at about the average date for the area. Early-planted corn is likely to be more heavily infested than that planted at the average date, because the corn-borer moths are inclined to deposit eggs on the mildest corn in the neighborhood.

Full Coverage Of Politics On CBS

CBS plans to field an all-star team for radio and television coverage of the political conventions of Chicago, according to N. F. West, Jr., of Norfolk, branch manager of Norfolk Distributing Company.

The company is distributor in this area for the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, which is sponsoring CBS coverage of the conventions. Mr. West declared:

"When the Republican convention on July 7, the Columbia Broadcasting System will have on deck the largest staff of correspondents it has ever assembled at one point.

"CBS will lead off with such headlines as Lowell Thomas, Edward R. Murrow, Robert Trout, Eric Sevareid, Bill Downs and Walter Cronkite.

"Operating with them will be a team of some 250 political analysts, writers, legends, feature reporters and technical experts.

"Almost two thousand press, radio and television people assembled under one roof at Chicago will make it the news capital of the world."

Radio outlets of the CBS network will include stations: WRVA, Richmond-Norfolk; WGTM, Wilson, and WTOP, Washington.

Microphones and cameras at Chicago will range far beyond the confines of the International Amphitheater, where the conventions will be held.

Mobile radio and television units will roam Chicago's Loop section, travel to the Municipal Airport and railroad stations to greet arriving candidates, follow parade routes and catch other sights and sounds that echo the main event at the convention hall.

Public interest in the conventions has advanced the extension of network television many months ahead of schedule.

CBS recently announced the addition to its "convention network" of another west coast station, KING-TV at Seattle.

The micro-wave link from Portland, Oregon, to Seattle is now being rushed to completion, although the tie-in date previously had been set for sometime in 1953.

By July, CBS will be prepared to offer coast-to-coast coverage of the conventions, from Seattle to Miami, from San Diego to Boston.

Sig Mickelson, CBS director of news and public affairs, predicts that 17,300,000 television sets will be in operation by July, carrying convention scenes to forty per cent of the U. S. population.

Only 403,000 sets were in use at the time of the Philadelphia conventions in 1948.

Tips Given For Care Of Poultry Flock

Take care of your pullet flock—egg prices are expected to be nearly as high this fall as they were a year ago, says H. W. Orlin, Princess Anne county agent.

He warns that warm, rainy, or cloudy weather is ideal for the development of coccidiosis. Several treatments are effective in checking the disease. Decide what to use, and have a supply on hand. Watch the chicks closely, and when symptoms of coccidiosis are noticed, treat according to directions. Keeping the litter in the brooder house dry, and the range free of water puddles will help prevent the disease.

As soon as the pullets are old enough to do without heat, they may be moved to the range. Good pasture, and ground on which no chickens have ranged for at least a year, are recommended. Keep the pullets away from the older birds. Cockerhens will reach frying size quicker and on less feed if they are kept confined. They may be kept in the brooder house until they are large enough to be eaten.

Keep good growing mash and plenty of water before the pullets at all times. Oats and hen-size grit may be kept in a separate hopper. Scratch grain may be fed after the middle of the afternoon.

Cull all hens in the laying flock that have gone "broody" or stopped laying. The hens that stop laying now are the poorest layers, and since prices for old hens are likely to fall in a month or two, it is more profitable to sell them now and save the feed they would be eating.

Orlin says in some sections there is interest in preserving cheap eggs and using them in the fall when eggs are scarce and prices are high. One quart of water glass (sodium silicate) in nine quarts of water that has been boiled and cooled will preserve 15 dozen eggs. Put the solution in a five-gallon, or larger, stone jar, and place it in the basement or some other cool place. Clean, infertile eggs may be placed in the liquid the day after they are laid. Contact Mr. Orlin for bulletins and other information on improved Poultry Production.

NEUTRINO TONER BOOKS

Torn pages of books may be held together with transparent library mending tape, or special tissue paper and paste, both of which are sold at book stores. Use a flat hard surface when mending.

Spots or soil on cloth bindings may be removed with an art gum eraser. Occasional applications of household wax—paste or cream—to leather bindings offer good protection.

Hints for Homemakers

How long will your wool clothing wear?

Miss Iva Byrd Johnson, clothing specialist at V.F.W., says research has indicated that the amount of new or virgin wool in a garment or article should be a guide when you buy.

All new wool gives the best wear according to tests, but fabrics of half, or less than half, reused wool wear reasonably well. The more reused wool in a blended fabric, the less service you can expect from it. Wool fabrics or part wool fabrics are so labeled. The amount of new wool, reused wool or other fiber used in the blend is stated on the label.

There are certain articles which may meet your needs when made of blends of new and reused wool or other fibers. Perhaps children's overalls, the gaiters, and there is one to put them on. Or perhaps the garment will be subjected to less wear.

Many have used blends successfully. But remember that too much wool in a blend, does not give enough fabric strength to stand the strain of much wear.

"Neopren" means favoring for relaxation.
